

U.S. burned in wheat deal, Shultz admits

SECRETARY SHULTZ
Soviets Made Bread on Deal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Treasury George P. Shultz conceded Friday that the United States got burned in the Soviet wheat deal but indicated it won't happen again.

"I think it is a fair statement to say that they were very sharp in their buying practices," Shultz said of the massive 1972 wheat purchases by the Soviet Union, a deal which pushed up U.S. food prices.

Meanwhile Sen. Walter Huddleston, D-Ky., said the Soviet Union appeared to be making at least a 100 per cent profit in selling some of the wheat to Italy at current high market prices.

In a Senate speech, Huddleston asked the Agriculture Department and the General Accounting Office to investigate.

In an interview, he said the Russians paid U.S. exporters about $1.65 per bushel for wheat and would get $4.65 on the world market now.

U.S. slashes auto price hikes, lifts beef freeze

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Cost of Living Council Friday ordered a 10- to 30-per cent cutback in scheduled price increases for 1974 automobiles. It also lifted two days early the freeze on beef prices.

The council announced a number of major actions under the new Phase 4 anti-inflation program, including:

— New food regulations to go into effect along with lifting of the price ceilings on beef at midnight Sunday, instead of midnight Tuesday as originally scheduled.

— That the Atlantic Richfield Oil company has agreed to suspend an increase of one cent per gallon in its wholesale price of gasoline and 2 cents per gallon increase in the price of home heating oil.

— That it has directed officials of Exxon Corp. to appear in Washington next week to justify a proposed increase in their wholesale price of gasoline of one cent per gallon.

— A temporary suspension of scheduled price increases by major tire, paper, soap and detergent companies.

— That it will hold public hearings in two weeks on the proposed price increases by tire, paper, soap and detergent companies, beginning with the rubber industry on Monday, Sept. 17.

— The reductions in proposed price increases by the four major auto companies.

Council director John Dunlop said it will announce a decision Monday on proposed price increases by 10 steel companies.

The auto price reductions hit Ford and General Motors hardest.

Ford's request of a $106 per model increase was reduced to $74; General Motors, from $102 to $73; Chrysler, from $70 to $51, and American Motors, from $61 to $55.

In Detroit, a spokesman for General Motors called the ruling disappointing, adding that the $102 GM sought represented the cost of added equipment at no profit. A Chrysler official said its original request was reasonable. American Motors said the order permitted sales of AMC cars at prices already announced. Ford officials declined to comment immediately.

The reductions in the proposed increases are 36 per cent for Ford, 28 per cent for General Motors, 27 for Chrysler, and 10 for American.

The increase can go into effect 30 days after they were requested under Phase 4 controls. The first increase would be Chrysler's on Sept. 14.

But the council ruled that American Motors, which wanted to increase its prices effective Sept. 5, may bill its dealers for the higher amount for vehicles shipped prior to Sept. 13 if it wishes.

Dunlop said one reason for lifting the ceiling price on beef early, was to head off possible shortages that could have resulted in the last few days before the scheduled lifting of the ceilings on Sept. 12.

He said one reason for putting the new food price regulations into effect two days early was to give businesses the benefit of being able to start the new controls at the beginning of the week.

The new food controls will allow companies to pass through all of their justified higher costs in prices to the consumer, instead of just the higher

Most gas stations' prices to dip today

WASHINGTON (AP) — Many gasoline retailers from coast to coast will be forced to lower their gasoline prices starting today when the government's new gasoline price regulations go into effect. Not all stations will need to charge less, however, and some may even charge more.

The decreases will be from one to three cents a gallon, to the approximate price that prevailed last January.

The station operators, last hope for slaving off the new price ceilings went glimmering Friday when Supreme Court Justice William H. Rehnquist denied a request he change a lower court order upholding the Phase 4 directive.

All of the approximately 218,000 service stations must have red, white and blue stickers displayed on each gasoline pump listing the maximum price they may charge and the octane rating of the gasoline.

The Internal Revenue Service will enforce the ceilings, and motorists who think they are being cheated should take their complaints to their local IRS offices.

Surrenders in L.A.

Ehrlichman pleads innocent

JOHN EHRLICHMAN faces newsmen in Los Angeles after entering a plea of innocence to burglary, conspiracy and perjury charges relating to the break-in at the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist. His attorney, Joseph Ball, is at his side.

John Ehrlichman, former chief White House domestic affairs adviser, pleaded innocent Friday to charges of burglary and perjury.

Ehrlichman surrendered himself in custody before Los Angeles Superior Court Judge James G. Kolts and was released on his own recognizance without having to post bail.

Standing with his hands behind his back and shifting balance on his feet, Ehrlichman listened to the charges involving him in the burglary of the office of Dr. Lewis Fielding, the psychiatrist of Pentagon Papers defendant Daniel Ellsberg.

Ehrlichman also was charged with lying under oath when he appeared before the county grand jury.

E. Howard Hunt's desire to smear Daniel Ellsberg was major factor in his being hired as a White House consultant, Senate Watergate committee documents show. Page A-6.

last June and told them that he had no foreknowledge of the break-in to secure a "psychiatric profile" of Ellsberg, whose case was thrown out of federal court largely on the basis of government misconduct.

Ehrlichman was the third of the "Watergate West" defendants to enter an innocent plea.

Egil "Bud" Krogh and David Young, other former White House aides, appeared previously this week and entered pleas of innocent.

Along with H. R. Haldeman, Ehrlichman was one of the closest lieutenants to President Nixon until both of them resigned their jobs under the heat of the Watergate investigation.

Ehrlichman spoke only a few words during his court appearance. He acknowledged that he understood his constitutional rights and then when asked by a deputy district attorney how he wished to plead, Ehrlichman turned briefly to his Los Angeles attorney, Joseph Ball, and then said quietly, "Not guilty."

1974 cars' gas mileage to be worse than 1973's

WASHINGTON (AP) — The average gasoline mileage of 1974 automobiles will be about one-half mile per gallon worse than that of the 1973 models, the Environmental Protection Agency said Friday.

EPA's figures showed that some mileage improvements turned up in almost all weight classes but the average mileages reached their lowest points.

The agency said it will release specific fuel-economy findings for each 1974 make and model sold in the United States, as it did earlier this year for 1973 models.

The EPA hopes each car in the showrooms will carry a window-sticker noting its gasoline performance. But such displays would be voluntary on the part of manufacturers and dealers.

The sticker would indicate the car's fuel mileage in comparison with its own and other weight classes.

EPA estimated $380 of fuel would be needed to drive 10,000 miles in a 4,000-pound car, more than double the $185 average fuel cost for a 2,000-pound car.

Only one weight class, the 2,250-pound category, showed improvement in its 1974 average mileage, an increase of one-half mile per gallon.

Cars in the lightest category, 2,000 pounds, lost one mile per gallon in average fuel economy, while the 2,500-pound class slipped by 1.5 miles per gallon.

All other weight classes lost one-half mile per gallon in average performance.

2 big fires erupt in Northern Calif.

United Press International

Two big forest fires struck in Northern California Friday in the first major outbreaks in the West since last month.

One blaze roared through a picturesque hillside in Big Basin State Park in Santa Cruz County. Some 150 fire fighters and air tankers brought in the rushing flames under control in 3½ hours.

The other scorched 350 acres in the rugged Finley

Creek area of Humboldt County. State officials, called for 250 more men to man the fire lines today and help the 150 firemen already on the scene. Winds were driving the flames.

These were the first major fires in the West since October when more than 200,000 acres of forest, brush and rangeland burned in the western states.

Banking conspiracy charge

AMA chairman, five others indicted

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (UPI) — The board chairman of the American Medical Association and five other prominent North Carolinians were indicted Friday by a federal grand jury on charges of conspiracy and misapplying bank funds totaling nearly $1.8 million.

Four of the six, including Dr. John R. Kernodle of Burlington, the AMA official, were former officers of the North State Bank of Burlington.

The six were charged variously with conspiracy, with making "unsound indirect loans for their own interests," and with paying checks not covered by sufficient funds.

The indictments named a former member of the North Carolina State Banking Commission, Norman Graham Smith of Burlington, who was former president of the North State Bank.

Also indicted were H. Calloway Pollard Jr. of Raleigh, president of Ketteridge Industries; Houston P. Sharpe of Burlington, president of five textile firms, and Charles M. McMillan of Burlington, treasurer of the firms in which Sharpe was involved.

Kernodle, 58, a member of the AMA board of trustees since 1968, is a prominent gynecologist and owner of a clinic in Burlington. He is a graduate and former instructor at Duke University Medical School.

Neither Kernodle nor the others indicted were available for comment. All were free on their own recognizance pending arraignment in 30 days.

The grand jury returned three indictments totaling 45 counts.

The first indictment, against Kernodle and Smith, charges a conspiracy to obtain unsound indirect loans for their own interests and concealing the purpose of the loans. Other counts charged them with misapplying $560,000 in bank funds for these loans.

The second indictment, against Kernodle, Pollard, Smith and Stewart, involved Ketteridge Industries, and charged conspiracy to make unsound indirect loans for their own interest, paying checks not backed by sufficient funds, and conspiracy to defraud the United States by circumventing government regulations on loans.

The third bill of indictment named Sharpe, McMillan and Smith. The first 21 counts involved five textile firms of which Sharpe was president, and the others involved other firms. Its first count charged conspiracy to grant unsound loans and paying out bank funds for insufficiently funded checks. Other counts charged paying out $269,258 in funds for insufficiently funded checks involving Sharpe's companies.

Authorities said the maximum penalty on conviction of each count of misapplying bank funds is five years in prison and a $10,000 fine. Punishment for false statements to a federally insured bank is two years in prison and a $5,000 fine, and for conspiracy a five year jail sentence and a $10,000 fine.

Officials have steadfastly refused to let crew members board the plane before they would permit the wounded man to be taken off.

Kuwaiti officials said the report of the shooting was false and turned down the demand. They ordered all contact with the plane broken off for the rest of the night and told the control tower not to answer any calls.

The five gunmen, holding as hostages six Saudis they snatched two days earlier in Paris, demanded that crew members be sent aboard the plane before they would permit the wounded man to be taken off.

Earlier reports from Radio Amman and the Middle East News Agency said one of the hostages had been shot and taken to a hospital.

The gunmen arrived on a Syrian Airlines Caravelle jetliner from Paris shortly after Thursday midnight. They renewed a demand they had made fruitlessly during a 27-hour occupation of the Saudi Arabian Embassy in Paris — that Jordan release Al Fatah guerrilla leader Abu Daoud, serving a life term for plotting the overthrow of King Hussein.

Soon after arriving in this Persian Gulf sheikdom, the terrorists and their Saudi hostages transferred to the Kuwait Airlines Boeing 707.

The gunmen took the jetliner off over neighboring Saudi Arabia on Friday morning and threatened by radio to throw their hostages out of the plane one by one over the Saudi capital of Riyadh. They also said they would blow up the plane in midair if Daoud were not freed.

The threats didn't work and the gunmen returned to Kuwait three hours later to resume bargaining.

There they issued a new ultimatum to blow up the plane and the hostages at the Kuwait airport if Daoud was not released by Saturday morning.

Aly Yassin, a representative of the Palestine Liberation Organization, opened negotiations with the gunmen and later told newsmen: "I am optimistic the crisis is easing. The gunmen have agreed to leave Kuwait with the hostages provided a Syrian plane is made available to them."

The official Saudi radio reported that Yassin had promised them safe conduct to Damascus and that a plane would be prepared. There were unconfirmed reports Yassin agreed to accompany them.

Propane blasts hit S. Gate

By TOM WILLMAN
Staff Writer

A South Gate area community was rocked by explosions Friday when a fire in a construction storage yard turned four propane tanks into deadly skyrockets that narrowly missed a county fire crew and a yard workman.

The fire, on a corner where industrial plants meet a housing tract, caused an estimated $15,000 damage at the Cerra Roofing Co., 2407 Cudahy St., in county territory—and another $5,000 damage to a county fire truck, disabled when a rocketing tank struck it like an incendiary shell.

County fire officials said the blaze—possibly touched off by a leaking propane tank and a spark from a fork-lift engine—also set fire to the roof of an adjacent home. The force of the explosions shattered windows in three nearby homes they added.

Despite the fact that a workman was standing beside the fork-lift when the first explosion occurred, and that firemen were standing on their truck when it was hit by the tank, no one was injured, officials said.

Richard Watts reported he was moving bags of cement mix with the forklift in the yard when he heard a hissing noise coming from a cluster of eight heavy propane tanks.

"When the top of that tank started going 'SSSS,' and when that old tank started wobbling, I knew it was going to go," he said. He jumped from the fork-lift and raced from the yard just as the tank fell, knocking others over like bowling pins, and the first explosion occurred, he said. The ensuing concussions moved his fork-lift 10 feet, other workers said.

A block away, County Fire Capt. Doug Warr heard the explosion as he and two men were leaving the scene of a rescue. Moments later, said Warr, his truck pulled up at the storage yard and blazing building and he radioed for assistance.

Warr said he and his men then ran to the rear of the truck and began uncoiling fire hoses.

"The three of us were in the back. We were pulling lines when one guy said, 'Watch out, it's coming!' They each went different ways. I climbed around on the running board and was trying to get a hose out," said Warr.

A propane tank torpedoed the fire truck at that moment, lodging beneath the truck and spewing flame, said witnesses. For a few moments, Warr stayed on the running board. "Fire was coming out from underneath," he said.

An instant after the tank struck the truck, said witnesses, another tank rocketed high overhead, landing across the street from the fiery yard. A third tank later was found in the yard of a home four doors away.

When other fire units arrived, smoke was billowing high over the gased blaze, said officials. The fire in the yard and in the home 6 to adjacent was extinguished by 10 county fire units, under Warr's command, within a half-hour, they added.

Bronchitis fells Bond

Bert Bond, city councilman from the Second District, was admitted to St. Mary's Hospital Friday suffering from acute bronchitis, his physician reported.

Members of his family said he had just returned from a vacation to Canada when he was stricken. They said he was "under no real stress" but that he might remain in the hospital a few days.

TV set stolen

Cathleen Mora, 1844 E. 15th St., told Long Beach Police Friday that burglars who forced the front door of her home took a color television set valued at $350.

ACTION LINE.....gets things done!

Out of hand?

In December 1971, ACTION LINE was instrumental in getting the city to authorize repairs on the two handball courts which make up part of the Alamitos Bay recreation complex. Work crews were sent out but the job was interrupted by the holidays and by a steady siege of wet weather and the job was never finished. Since then, all the painting and minor repairs have been handled and paid for by the players. We are asking for your help again because now some of the larger boards are cracked and rotten and need replacing and we aren't experienced carpenters. B.L., Long Beach.

A Long Beach Recreation Department maintenance foreman checked the handball courts and "made a couple of adjustments on the boards but couldn't see where any major repairs were needed," said a recreation department spokesman. He said that when repairs are needed, you should phone their maintenance division and not do the work yourselves. "The courts are old and we've been repairing them for years and we'll keep repairing them until new ones are eventually built," he said.

Well Oiled

Several years ago, I read an article about the Williston Oil Basin in Montana and Saskatchewan, Canada. This deposit was supposed to be one of the richest in the world. If there is supposed to be an oil shortage, why isn't that deposit being tapped? V.B., Long Beach.

Oil has been extracted from the Williston Basin since 1951, according to a domestic petroleum expert with the U.S. Department of Interior's office of oil and gas. He said that when oil drilling first began there it was on a somewhat limited basis because there were problems with shifting earth formations. The deposit currently is being fully utilized. The Williston Basin, which was one of the richest oil discoveries on this continent, should be an important source of petroleum for several more years.

Look again

On May 15, I sold an automobile to a private party. That day, I sent a notice of ownership transfer to the California Department of Motor Vehicles. On May 29, the new owner received a citation for a defective smog control system. Since he had not registered the car in his name, the citation was issued to me as the owner of the automobile. I notified the court that I had sold the car two weeks prior to the date of citation and had informed DMV of the sale. The court replied that DMV listed me as the owner and if I didn't pay the $11 fine a warrant would be issued for my arrest. I thought the notice of transfer form released a previous owner from any future liabilities. D. R., Garden Grove.

It does, but on the notice of transfer form you sent to DMV, you listed June 9, not May 15, as the date of the sale, according to a spokesman for the department's headquarters in Sacramento. He is sending you a copy of your transfer form. Since you were the owner of record on May 29, the date of the citation, you'll have to pay the fine. You also gave ACTION LINE the wrong license number, which resulted in a considerable waste of time and effort.

Penalty

Can ACTION LINE explain why savings and loan associations charge a 90-day interest penalty if a customer wants to convert an existing long-term savings account to one with a higher interest rate? It seems that these companies are making more money out of this deal than the savers are even with the higher interest rates. A.S., Long Beach

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board, the government agency which regulates savings and loan firms, requires the 90-day interest penalty for account conversions. When the higher interest rates first became available, banks, unlike savings and loan companies, were permitted to set their own policy on the penalty matter, but the Federal Reserve Board recently ordered all banks, as well, to charge the 90-day interest penalty after Sept. 10. A government official pointed out that long-term savings accounts are valid contracts in force for a set period, and when a customer tries to convert his account to a higher rate he is breaking the contract. The government decided to permit conversions and the 90-day penalty is designed to compensate banks and savings and loan companies for the additional interest they will be paying.

Y workers cleared of all charges

A San Pedro and Peninsula YMCA spokesman said Friday that two of the organization's employees, arrested Aug. 31 during a pre-dawn drug raid near the YMCA pool, have been cleared of all criminal charges and "reinstated without penalization or loss of pay."

Richard Collato, executive director of the YMCA at 301 S. Bandini Ave., said it had been erroneously reported that janitor Guy Maynes, 28, would lose $250 in salary because he had been suspended for two weeks.

Collato said Maynes, who apparently just happened to be in the building when police discovered a quantity of marijuana and amphetamines, was "a victim of circumstance."

Maynes and YMCA pool manager Keith J. Anderson, 18, had reported to work an hour early and were mistakenly arrested with six other suspects, Collato added.

The director said Christopher Watts, 28, has been summarily terminated as a result of his arrest in connection with the raid. Watts was associate physical education director at the YMCA.

Top county aide will leave L.A.

From Our L.A. Bureau

The county's assistant chief administrative officer, Ted Durkee, will take the post of chief administrative officer of Santa Cruz County starting October 1, it was learned Friday.

Chief Administrative Officer Arthur Will, who made the announcement, said Durkee had made "an outstanding showing" in the Santa Cruz competition and was chosen by that county's Board of Supervisors late Thursday.

Durkee, 50, currently earning $40,644 a year, has been with the county since 1955 and has been chief assistant to Will as well as former Chief Administrative Lynn Hollinger.

He came to the county from the office of state Legislative Analyst A. Alan Post and held several staff analyst positions until appointment as chief of the management division in 1961. He held this position until May 1969 when he was appointed assistant chief administrative officer.

Durkee headed up a task force probing the feasibility of consolidating several departments into one umbrella agency known as the Human Services Department.

Dealers 'spiking' grass

WASHINGTON (AP) — International narcotics traffickers in Southeast Asia are trying to line up hard-drug customers by lacing marijuana with opium and selling it as "hot marijuana," the chairman of House subcommittee on narcotics said Friday.

"It's a new effort to hook kids," said Rep. Lester L. Wolff, D-N.Y., who recently returned from a trip to Southeast Asia.

He said a small amount of the laced marijuana is coming into the United States and it is being sold to U.S. servicemen in Southeast Asia.

MARIJUANA is considered by some drug experts to be nonaddictive. Opium is addictive and also is the drug from which heroin is made.

Wolff said the narcotic traffickers started lacing marijuana with opium after they found themselves in a declining market for hard drugs. He said the decline was contributed to by withdrawal programs, enforcement, and the fact that many people are reluctant to use hard drugs but not reluctant to smoke marijuana.

"I first heard about in Guam. From the information I received, it appears that this (the opium laced marijuana) is coming into the states on U.S. military aircraft," Wolff said.

"Guam has been asking for drug agents and for dogs (which can sniff out drugs) and they haven't gotten them," Wolff said.

A spokesman for the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration confirmed that there have been requests for agents on Guam and for a general increase throughout Southeast Asia, but he said there are not enough agents to go around.

"THERE'S a slot open for a DEA agent in Hong Kong," Wolff said.

"Officially DEA said it couldn't find anyone to fill it, but unofficially I found out that OMB (Office of Management and Budget in the White House) wouldn't fund it," he said.

In a report to the House Foreign Affairs Committee this summer Wolff's subcommittee said that Hong Kong is the financial center for illicit narcotics traffic in Southeast Asia.

Speaking at a news conference, along with some of the other representatives who accompanied him on his fact finding trip to Southeast Asia, Wolff said the subcommittee found that "gathering information to get an accurate picture was a complicated effort."

Hotlines for queries on spray peril

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Consumer Product Safety Commission announced Friday it is opening two telephone hotlines to answer a flood of queries from across the country on a birth defect scare involving aerosol spray glues.

At the same time, the agency said it hopes to have within the next few weeks a more definitive announcement on how great the hazard is of genetic defects for expectant parents who have been using the spray-on adhesives.

Since Aug. 17, when it banned the first of what eventually became 13 brands of spray adhesives, the commission has been flooded with telephone calls from doctors, industry representatives and patients from all over the country.

The commission said it had opened two telephone lines to local television stations in Maryland and the number was 496-7973.

Soviets, U.S. open hot line

MOSCOW (UPI) — U.S. and Soviet officials Friday opened a hot line between Moscow and Washington to aid their common war against disease.

They also agreed to undertake joint research on arthritis, in addition to studies already under way on cancer, heart disease and environmental health.

Caspar W. Weinberger, U.S. secretary of health, education and welfare, and Soviet Health Minister Boris V. Petrovsky inaugurated the direct Telex hotline at health ministry offices to enable scientists to exchange information immediately.

The U.S.-Soviet agreement on joint health research was signed in May 1972 during President Nixon's visit to Moscow. A communique issued at the meeting Friday said the two sides would consider whether to add influenza to the program next year.

Newsman asked Petrovsky if basic information on disease and mortality rates, generally difficult to obtain here, would be included in the data exchange. He replied such information is freely published in the Soviet Union.

Petrovsky also spoke about measures to combat smoking in the Soviet Union, where the government has a monopoly on tobacco.

"Some of my officials have suggested we should outlaw smoking," he said. "Unfortunately we don't have the right to do this. But in my office no one smokes. We have banned smoking in hospitals, and hope to expand such measures."

Petrovsky said the United States and Soviet Union are exchanging drugs in each other's anticancer research programs and have exchanged heart surgery equipment as part of their joint program.

Nerve gas store to be destroyed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department has apparently decided to destroy, rather than move, tons of nerve gas now stored at the Rocky Mountain Arsenal near Denver, military and congressional sources said Friday.

Army Secretary Edward Callaway said earlier this summer he preferred transporting the gas to some other military installation. Sites suggested then were Tooe Army Arsenal in Utah and Pueblo Arsenal in Colorado.

But in a statement to congressmen from Utah and Colorado, Callaway said Friday a final review was underway to determine if the stocks were needed at all. If they are not required, Callaway said, the "best solution appears to be to demilitarize them in place."

A MILITARY source familiar with the issue said Callaway's statement should be interpreted to mean the gas will eventually be destroyed at the arsenal.

The Army has been destroying nearly 1,500 tons of mustard gas, a less toxic weapon, at Rocky Mountain for months. Next month an additional 1,039 tons of obsolete nerve gas stored in explosive bomb canisters is scheduled to begin gradual neutralization.

The process to make that gas harmless is expected to last about three years.

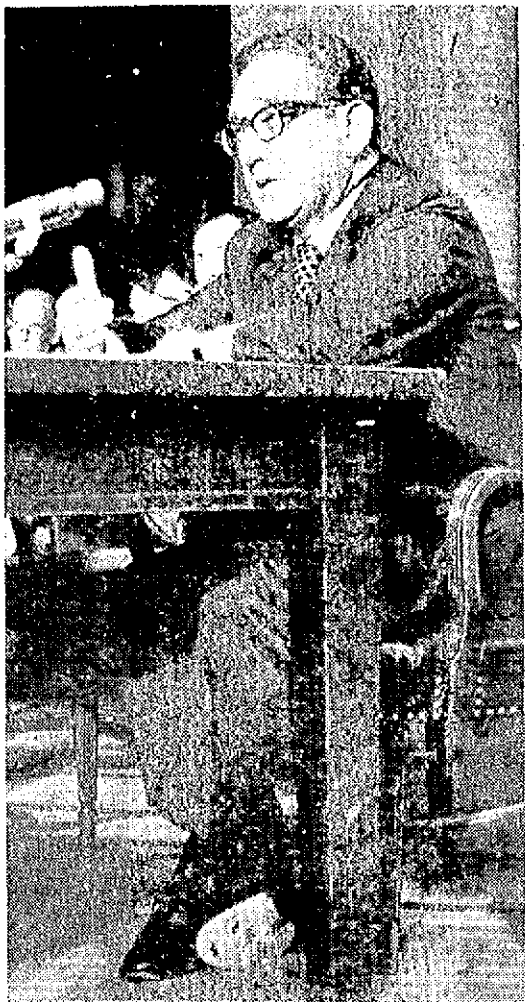

At issue in Callaway's new statement to Congress is a much bigger batch of nerve gas, which is not obsolete. The exact amount involved is not known, but the joint U.S.-Soviet agreement on the destruction of nerve gas is understood, but the decision to destroy it is not yet made. It is a decision against moving it, and against saying it will be destroyed in place.

Richardson to testify on Kissinger's taps

By BERNARD GWERTZMAN
New York Times Service
WASHINGTON — Henry A. Kissinger was threatened Friday with a delay in his confirmation as secretary of state, unless Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson turned over to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee a report on Kissinger-approved wiretaps, carried out in 1969-71 on 17 government officials and newsmen.

After four hours of intensive questioning of Kissinger, the committee, headed by Sen. J. W. Fulbright, asked him to return for another hearing on Monday morning at 10:30 — one hour after Richardson will meet in secret session with the committee to discuss the controversy over the wiretaps.

THE MUCH-TRAVELED Henry Kissinger has a hole in his shoe as he testifies before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee Friday.

A JUSTICE Department spokesman said Friday afternoon that no decision had been made yet on whether to comply with Fulbright's request for the FBI's report on the taps that were carried out on 13 officials and four newsmen. Some of the officials were close aides of Kissinger, and one of them, Richard M. Moose, now works for the committee.

"I think it is very clear that the committee will not be in position to act on the nomination until that report has been received," Sen. Clifford Case, R-N.J., told Kissinger. Fulbright, D-Ark., quickly added: "I agree with the senator."

Some other senators, however, were less insistent on having the report. Both Sen. Hugh Scott, the Republican minority leader from Pennsylvania, and Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., stressed their opposition to receiving "raw FBI data" which might infringe on the civil liberties of individuals.

BUT BOTH sides in the dispute on the committee supported Fulbright's idea of calling Richardson and asking him to testify on Monday.

The wiretap issue was the most contentious matter raised by committee members during the hearing, and the one which obviously bothered Kissinger the most. He gave contradictory replies to some questions, expressed ignorance of details of the investigations, and finally pleaded with the committee to deal directly with Richardson. But he defended the taps as necessary at the time to stop leaks to the press.

With television lights glaring in the Senate caucus room, Kissinger sought to persuade the committee members both in his opening statement, and in his answers to questions, that he would fulfill his pledge to work closely with them and that he would consult with them "to share more fully in the design of our foreign policy."

Most of the 16 committee members who were present during the hearing praised Kissinger for the record he compiled as President Nixon's national security adviser.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., for instance, said that the confirmation hearings were "historic" because of Kissinger's background as a German-Jewish immigrant.

"I can think of nothing which proves the American system to all the people in the world more validly than that by sheer talent and energy and patriotism you have attained the most exalted place in the cabinet," he said.

BUT DESPITE the receptiveness to Kissinger, the committee members pressed him on

Baker vows Demo embarrassment

MEMPHIS (AP) — Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn., said Friday Democrats would come in for a share of embarrassment in the next phase of the Senate Watergate committee investigation. He refused to say which Democrats would be called to testify.

Baker said there is "no Democratic Watergate." But he said he has told his Republican friends who are worried about the affect of the investigation on the party that there will be "ample embarrassment for everyone."

"I don't mean to tantalize you," he told a newsman. "There is no great bombshell, but everybody will be sufficiently embarrassed."

"There were wrongdoings on both sides of the ledger and they will come out," said Baker, vice chairman of the committee.

Asked who in the Democratic Party could be as dramatic a witness as top White House aides, Baker said, "There are some." He would not give their names.

Baker said Watergate revelations against the Republican leadership "can't be offset" by any disclosures concerning Democrats.

Mitchell, Stans subpoena solons

WASHINGTON (AP) — Attorneys representing John Mitchell and Maurice Stans have subpoenaed two congressional committee chairmen in connection with a case involving fugitive financier Robert Vesco, it was learned Friday.

Also subpoenaed were congressional records and some secret congressional testimony.

MITCHELL, former attorney general and chairman of President Nixon's re-election committee, and Stans, former commerce secretary and chairman of Nixon's re-election finance committee, were scheduled to go on trial in New York Tuesday.

They are charged in connection with an alleged illegal $200,000 cash contribution made by Vesco to Nixon's campaign.

The subpoenas ordered the two congressmen, Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., and Rep. Harley Staggers, D-W.Va., to appear in New York Tuesday before the U.S. District Court with pertinent testimony and documents related to the Vesco case obtained during closed-door hearings they held earlier in the year.

Nixon tape position held oath violation

GREENSBORO, N.C. (UPI) — Sen. Sam Ervin, D-N.C., said Friday night if President Nixon did not release the Watergate tapes then his oath to support the Constitution "is a meaningless mockery."

Ervin labeled as "intellectual rubbish" Nixon's argument that to turn over the tapes would seriously impair his capacity and that of his successors to discharge the duties of the presidency.

ERVIN SAID the Constitution declares the President shall take care that the laws be faithfully executed.

"If this is not the truth, the President is above the Constitution and his oath to support that document is a meaningless mockery," Ervin said.

President charged with new coverup

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (UPI) — House Speaker Carl Albert, D-Okla., Friday night said President Nixon was attempting "a second Watergate coverup" by trying to divert the attention of Americans away from himself and into criticism of Congress.

The 26-year veteran of Congress told a news conference prior to a dinner honoring Rep. Richard Ichord, D-Mo., that there was no intention of the House now to impeach the President, but he strongly disputed the President's contention that Congress has fallen down on the job and should "get back to taking care of the business of the people."

"I don't think the Congress ever worked harder since I've been in it than we worked during the late spring and summer months," Albert said. "We were working late nearly every night; we passed a lot of legislation."

Enmity for Ellsberg said job key to Hunt

WASHINGTON (AP) — E. Howard Hunt's desire to smear Daniel Ellsberg, "to nail the guy cold" out of court, was a major factor in his being hired as a White House consultant two months before the Ellsberg burglary, documents held by the Senate Watergate committee show.

The committee has obtained a transcript of a July 1, 1971, telephone conversation between Hunt and special presidential counsel Charles W. Colson which Colson taped and sent to White House chief of staff H. R. Haldeman.

COLSON, who had known Hunt for several years and had served with him as an officer of the Brown University Club here, was anxious to hire the retired CIA agent at the White House.

In a cover memo sent to Haldeman with the transcript, Colson said:

"If you want to get a feel of his attitude, I transcribed a conversation with him yesterday on it. Needless to say, I did not even approach what we had been talking about but merely sounded out his own ideas."

The memo did not elaborate on what they "had been talking about," and Colson wasn't immediately available for comment.

In the phone conversation on the day after the Supreme Court refused to stop publication of the Pentagon Papers, Colson suggested that Ellsberg was likely to be turned into a martyr by the "New Left," or it could become another Alger Hiss case, where the guy is exposed, other people were operating with him, and this may be the way to really carry it out."

Cox seeking to modify tape order

WASHINGTON (AP) — Special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox sought a federal appeals court order Friday allowing Watergate prosecutors to hear secret White House tape recordings.

Cox asked the court to modify an order by U.S. District Judge John Sirica that President Nixon turn over the tapes for the judge's private review.

Cox said he felt Sirica would not be as well-qualified as the prosecutors to assess the pertinence of material on the tapes to the Watergate investigation.

NIXON has challenged the court's authority to order him to divulge information he claims is protected by executive privilege.

The President's lawyers filed a petition Thursday asking the appeals court to nullify Sirica's order. The appeals court has scheduled arguments in the case for Tuesday.

The case stemmed from Cox's subpoena of nine tape recordings of conversations between Nixon and former presidential advisers implicated in Watergate. Cox wants to present the tapes to the grand jury.

"WE MIGHT be able to put this bastard into a helluva situation and discredit the New Left."

As a young congressman on the House Un-American Activities Committee, Richard M. Nixon gained national attention with his vigorous pursuit of Hiss, whom he accused of helping the Communists.

Hunt said Colson's proposal would be "marvelous," and at this point I would be willing to set aside my personal yen for vengeance to make sure that the administration profits from this."

Hunt said the goal might be reached if the "proper resources" were available, and Colson said he thought they would be, pointing out he was not interested in trying the case in the courts but in the newspapers.

HUNT AGREED with Colson that "we should go down the line to nail the guy cold."

Four days after the memo went to Haldeman, Colson took Hunt to domestic-affairs chief John D. Ehrlichman for an interview, and Hunt was brought onto the White House staff a few days later to work under Colson. All four have since left the White House.

In a sworn deposition last May, Colson said Hunt was assigned to "an analytical and research job" to determine how the published versions of the Pentagon Papers compared with government files. Two or three weeks after he was hired, Hunt was assigned to the White House "Plumbers" squad that carried out the burglary of Ellsberg's psychiatrist's office during the Labor Day weekend slightly more than a month later.

Despite memos from the "Plumbers" discussing efforts to change Ellsberg's press image and to discredit him publicly, Ehrlichman insisted during his Senate testimony that the object was not to smear Ellsberg.

HE SWORE their job was to find out how the Pentagon Papers were leaked and to prevent similar leaks in the future. Ehrlichman and three of the "Plumbers" were indicted by a Los Angeles County grand jury this week in connection with the burglary.

In other Watergate developments Friday:

— Sen. Joseph M. Montoya, D-N.M., a member of the Watergate committee, announced his opposition to dividing the panel into subcommittees to conduct separate, simultaneous investigations of political sabotage and campaign financing during last year's presidential campaign. It would appear that the subcommittee proposal, to be discussed by the committee in executive session next week, is now dead.

— Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., said he would oppose further television of the Watergate hearings which "can only serve as a conduit of public doubt." Thurmond said Congress should "end the obsession with Watergate" and proceed to deal with other urgent national concerns.

Senate blocks $19 billion bill

Officials lose limo funds

The Senate Friday refused to appropriate $19 billion to operate nine government agencies unless officials are denied the use of 16 chauffeured limousines.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., floor manager of the appropriations bill, forced through an amendment to eliminate the limousines and their drivers. With overtime, the drivers are paid $14,000 to $17,000 annually, he said.

No one spoke in favor of limousines, but Proxmire's opponents said Congress should adopt a policy applying throughout the government and not simply to agencies under the jurisdiction of Proxmire's appropriations subcommittee.

The 57-30 vote put the Senate in dispute with the House. On Aug. 1, the House, bowing to the complaints of the officials involved that they were being singled out, voted 222 to 189 to permit continued use of the limousines.

A new attempt to compromise now must be made before this fiscal year's appropriations are approved for housing programs, the space agency, the Veterans Administration, Selective Service and five other agencies.

Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., Senate Appropriations Committee chairman, promised to appoint a special committee to study the issue if Proxmire would not force a vote on the issue.

But Proxmire refused, saying: "There's been a massive proliferation of limousines — everybody and their brother has them. It's unseemly in a political democracy."

He said that at the same time the Housing and Urban Development Department was refusing to spend money for the urban poor, five HUD officials had the use of chauffeured limousines.

Administration policy, he said, is "no housing for the poor but limousines for the administrators."

$13.9 million each

Cost of F14s cut $10 million

By ORR KELLY
Washington Star-News

WASHINGTON — The Defense Department and Grumman Aerospace Corp. have reached agreement on a new price for 50 F14 fighter planes which is nearly $10 million below earlier estimates provided to Congress, informed sources said Friday.

Deputy Defense Secretary William P. Clements Jr. told Sen. Howard Cannon, D-Nev., chairman of the Senate's Tactical Air Power subcommittee, in a letter that the Pentagon will need $693 million rather than the nearly $703 million it had requested in the 1974 budget to buy 50 more of the planes.

While a formal contract has not been signed, it was learned that Grumman has agreed in writing to the new price. If everything goes right, the company will make a profit of $25 million on the deal — in contrast to the $100 million it has written off on the first 134 planes it is building.

When the 1974 budget was sent to Congress, the Navy expected to pay slightly over $14 million apiece for 50 planes — not counting some $2 billion invested in research and development and written off against the 134 planes already delivered or on order.

Under the new deal, the price will be slightly under $13.9 million apiece for the planes, or a reduction of nearly $200,000 per plane. Senate sources said the reduction represents a cut in the cost of the airframe — the part built by Grumman.

The Navy hopes to buy at least 313 of the planes with the price on each yearly batch to be negotiated separately. If the remainder of the 313 were bought at this year's price, the total for the program would come to $5.94 billion or $19 million apiece for the planes.

Under the original contract, the Navy had expected to pay a total of $5.2 billion or $16.8 million apiece for the 313 planes.

The reduction of nearly $10 million from the original 1974 budget estimate was the result of pressure on the Navy by Clements, on Grumman by Navy Secretary John W. Warner and on everybody by Cannon, who told the Navy, in effect, that the F14 money in the 1974 budget would be held up until a new price had been hammered out with Grumman.

Attack on business gets response

By MICHAEL C. JENSEN
NEW YORK — The National Association of Manufacturers, stung by increasing hostility toward big business by many segments of society, is studying the possibility of initiating an Institute of American Industry, which would educate business executives on broad social, political and ethical matters.

Creation of such an institute would represent a departure from past industry reaction to social criticism, which has consisted largely of increased promotional efforts.

A committee of NAM board members is scheduled to discuss the staff proposal on Monday.

The action by an organization that represents the nation's biggest and most powerful businesses comes at a time when public opinion is turning increasingly against corporations.

Disclosure in recent weeks that seven large companies contributed illegally to President Nixon's re-election campaign has heightened public criticism of corporate morality.

In an international NAM memorandum, James F. Kelley, president of the Aeroglide Corp., warned that business and industrial leaders increasingly were expressing concern over the "hostile attitudes expressed toward the private enterprise system."

"Yet, there has not been any broad-based agreement on the best strategies and programs to resolve the problem," he said. "Nevertheless, the inadequacy of present efforts is too apparent to be ignored."

A privately circulated discussion paper, prepared by the NAM, recommends that the association provide a national education program to acquaint business executives with a deeper knowledge of how society works.

"It is a serious miscalculation," the paper observes, "to assume that businessmen, by virtue of their being businessmen, are knowledgeable enough to respond effectively to attacks on the philosophy of the business system."

Meany rips Nixon for 'economic mess'

ATLANTA (AP) — George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, said Friday that President Nixon was responsible for the "sorry economic mess that has become more or less a way of life."

"When Mr. Nixon took office in 1969, America was in fairly good shape," Meany told the 300 delegates attending the 10th biennial constitutional convention of the Industrial Union Department, AFL-CIO.

"Employment was at an all-time high, unemployment was at its lowest rate in 15 years, there was no shortage of food or consumer goods, houses were being built and families that needed them could still afford to buy them," the union leader said.

At that time, he added, the prime interest rate at the banks was 7 per cent and "the dollar was strong and respected throughout the world."

"Workers and workers alone have been forced to sacrifice in the administration's so-called fight against inflation," Meany said amid heavy applause.

He said in the past two years there has been no even-handedness in the controlled program and that the annual inflation rate which Nixon found unacceptably high in 1968 at 4.2 per cent is now 8 per cent.

"There is one segment of the economy, however, that is feeling no distress — big business and the bankers," Meany declared. He added that the nation's tax policy is shifting more and more of the tax burden to wage earners.

In vetoing the minimum wage bill, which would have raised the minimum wage from $1.60 to $2.20, Meany said Nixon delivered a "crushing blow to the poorest paid workers in the nation."

"This is a cruel and callous action on the part of the President. If anything would go to prove that this administration has no heart, this proves it," Meany said.

Meany said he thinks Watergate and the economic policies of the Nixon administration are "just one ball of wax."

"They are based on the same underlying principle and impulses. They are both based on the idea that the American people are too stupid to know when they have been taken ... They are both based on the idea that our economy is for the rich, by the rich and of the rich and our politics are for the special interest, by the special interest," said Meany.

The union leader also gave a comparison of food prices taken from a supermarket ad in a major city in February 1968 and compared them with the same figures taken in a Thursday ad from the same store.

"The loaf of bread cost 17 cents. Today it cost 25 cents. Same store, same bread. That is a 47 per cent increase," Meany declared.

"A gallon of milk, 66 cents today; in February 1968 it was 51 cents. Ten pounds of white potatoes, 1968, 39 cents; 10 pounds of white potatoes today, $1.29 — a 231 per cent increase."

Nixon peace feelers to Congress score

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon sent out peace feelers to Congress Friday and won an assessment from a Democratic leader that the climate for cooperation is good.

Apparently surprised at the anger with which congressional Democrats reacted to Nixon's criticism of Congress' performance, the White House announced that the President had conferred with Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana at breakfast and would similarly meet with House leaders next week.

Mansfield quoted Nixon as saying that his evaluation of Congress' performance was not intended to condemn its overall record — which he acknowledged is good — but only to apply to specific requests the President had made.

The Senate leader said the forthcoming message was discussed in general terms and that he expects "nothing much in the way of new material, but emphasis on requests previously made."

These presumably will form at presidential best, but make its own decisions.

include Nixon's special revenue sharing programs, which have been coolly received in Congress; the trade bill, on which the House Ways and Means Committee is working, and various proposals in the field of energy.

THE HOUSE breakfast meeting Monday is to include Speaker Carl Albert, D-Okla., Democratic Leader Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. of Massachusetts, and Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan.

A source close to the House leadership said the invitation was viewed as an effort at conciliation.

Three plead innocent to charge of selling heroin

Three men charged with selling heroin, marijuana and pills to state and county narcotics officers pleaded innocent Friday at their arraignment in Long Beach Superior Court.

Judge Charles C. Stratton set trial for Oct. 16 for the defendants, Joseph Robert Clemens, 23, and Kevin Charles Cunningham, both of 5025 E. Pacific Coast Highway, and David Lee Whitley, 21, of 16131 Cornuta Ave., Bellflower.

Agents for the State Bureau of Narcotics Enforcement and sheriff's deputies reported they paid out about $11,500 to the defendants for drug purchases during their investigation of the case.

Clemens and Whitley are free on bond of $5,000 each. Cunningham is at liberty on $1,000 bond.

agricultural costs, as provided by the current regulations.

Asked what impact the new regulations would have on food prices, Dunlop said, "We expect there may be a bulge, but I think it's fair to say it will be much smaller" than occurred after the price freeze was lifted on July 18.

The wholesale price index for August showed that prices of farm products leaped a record 23.1 per cent after the freeze was lifted, nearly double the previous top monthly increase this century.

The overall increase, 5.8 per cent, was the biggest since October 1946 during the post World War II inflation.

Dunlop also said it was likely there would be higher beef prices but said he expected they would be lower than the increases that occurred previously for pork.

He released figures which showed that wholesale prices of a number of farm products, including soybeans, corn, hogs and chickens, have dropped sharply since their peak levels in mid-August.

Asked if this meant the worst of the price increases were over, Dunlop said, "I'd like to think so."

The price increases announced by tire, paper, soap and detergent companies will be suspended until after the council has held hearings on the increases.

The council's general counsel, William Walker, said the Atlantic Richfield Co. agreed to the council's request to suspend its wholesale price increases for gasoline and home heating oil pending additional study.

He said that the council so far has determined that some of the price increases seem warranted, but that all of them "have not yet been adequately verified."

Exxon announced Thursday its wholesale price increase of gasoline, and the council's announcement Friday indicated it will ask the company for the same kind of information it already has received from Atlantic Richfield.

It was clear from statements by officials at the news briefing that some increases will be allowed. Under Phase 4, major companies can pass along increases in the cost of imported crude oil.

The council also said it will review recently announced price increases of gasoline and home heating oil by the Ashland Oil Co.

Dunlop said the council was trimming the proposed auto price increases, "because they are of such magnitude and would have such an impact upon the economy as to be unreasonably inconsistent with the goals of the Economic Stabilization Program."

The decreases were not surprising, as many observers felt the council would have to make some reductions to demonstrate that the new Phase 4 program had at least some teeth. It held public hearings on both the auto and steel price proposals last week.

The auto companies sought the price increases to pay for government-mandated safety and environmental features in the 1974 models.

The major companies must give the council 30 days advance notice of their intention to increase prices under Phase 4 giving the council time to act against the increases if it chooses. Increases are to be allowed only to reflect higher costs, not for profits.

The council said Friday that nine rubber companies have proposed price increases of 6.5 per cent on tubes and tires, 20 paper companies have proposed price increases of about 5.7 per cent on a number of paper products; and five major soap companies have proposed increases of 20.3 per cent on soap and detergent products.

Nonteachers join pickets

CUPERTINO (AP) — Construction workers and some union truck drivers refused to cross picket lines Friday, as efforts continued to end the two-day Cupertino Union School District teachers strike.

John McCarthy of the State Conciliation Service in San Francisco met with both sides in the strike late Friday afternoon in an effort to settle the labor dispute in the state's largest elementary school district.

About 100 nonteaching school employees joined the strike Friday while picket lines shut down about $1 million in school construction and curtailed some deliveries to the schools.

The American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees AFL-CIO Local 1448 set up picket lines by 7 a.m. Friday.

"TOGETHER the teachers and the classified employees will stand firm and will not conclude this action until the issues are resolved," Mel Raymes, president of the local, said in a letter to his union members and to the teachers.

The maintenance workers union called their strike after rejecting an offer by the school board for a 2 per cent wage increase and a 2 per cent cost of living bonus.

A spokesman for the teachers stressed that there are no salary demands involved. He said the teachers are striking over an across-the-board $250 bonus which the school district has proposed.

He said teachers object to the bonus because "they want to be paid not through handouts but through wages based on experience and proven dedication." He said the teachers have asked the school officials to take the money allotted for the proposed bonus and apply it to the salary schedule instead.

Construction workers on 10 school rehabilitation projects now in progress in the district refused to cross the lines Friday, William Heber, the school administrator in charge of the work, said.

THERE were conflicting reports concerning whether Teamster truck drivers honored the picket lines Friday.

"All deliveries were made today," a school spokesman said. "The Teamsters are not respecting the picket lines."

School spokesman Sarah Wallace did say that one delivery truck was prevented by pickets from leaving school property after it had crossed the lines and that no deliveries were expected when school reopens Tuesday. Monday is a school holiday for Admission Day.

But Jim Kramer, executive director of the Cupertino Education Association which called the teachers walkout, said that he knew that some drivers did respect the picket lines Friday and did not make deliveries to the schools.

No Teamster officials could be reached for comment.

CUPERTINO school officials reported that pupil attendance on the second day of the strike was about the same as the first day. About 91 per cent of the district's 22,000 students were present for class Friday and Thursday.

About 65 per cent of the classroom teachers were not at school Friday, school officials reported.

The school system was operating with 245 regular teachers, about 27 per cent, down from 33 per cent Thursday. The district employed 542 substitute teachers Friday, up from 441 on Thursday.

Beseeched by a horde of newsmen in the corridor after his brief arraignment, Ehrlichman said he was going to "make it an unvarying policy of not commenting on this matter until its disposition."

He then referred all inquiries to his attorney.

"I try my cases in court and I'm going to adhere to that here," Ball said.

A newsmen asked Ball whether he felt there was some sort of "political vendetta" against Ehrlichman.

"Well, obviously politics played a part," Ball said, declining to elaborate.

The arraignment of the third defendant was marked by issuance in Washington of a statement by special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox who indicated with some impatience that Los Angeles County Dist. Atty. Joseph Busch was proceeding too rapidly with prosecution of the Ellsberg break-in.

"This office has from its beginning been investigating the events leading to the break-in at Dr. Fielding's office, both specifically and as part of a wider inquiry into other 'possibly illegal activities' purportedly undertaken in the name of national security," Cox said.

"In our view, the federal interests in dealing with any possible illegal activities by White House employees is clearly predominant."

"We are confident that ways can be found of avoiding conflict and confusion while the federal investigation and prosecution of any resulting indictments go forward."

"For a country of non-capitalists, the Soviet Union has pulled off a major coup," he said.

Huddleston said he based his account on Italian newspaper accounts and the report of an Italian resident that a ship unloaded 22,000 metric tons of Soviet grain at a port near Rome. Other accounts said two other vessels may have carried Soviet grain to Italy, he said.

The reports of the sale "could well be another indication that Soviet traders knew more about world conditions than we did and took advantage of our negotiators not only to supply their own needs but to reap huge profits on the world market — all subsidized by the American taxpayer and consumer," Huddleston said.

Shultz said the Russians bought perhaps two-thirds more wheat than the United States originally thought.

"If you get burned once, then that's their fault. But if you get burned twice, then that's your fault," he said at a press conference.

Shultz, who will visit

Moscow during a tour to major nations in the next three weeks, said the United States is now talking to the Soviet Union about the magnitude of wheat purchases.

The United States loaned the Soviets $750 million in the summer of 1972 to purchase grain over three years.

Soviet traders obtained 440 million bushels of grain. The result, the GAO said last July, was higher U.S. prices for bread and flour-based products, beef, pork, poultry, eggs and dairy products.

Development of ocean oil seen

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Eight Oklahoma scientists Friday concluded that vast untapped offshore oil and gas resources can be developed in the 1980s to ease the nation's energy crisis with low risk to the environment.

The University of Oklahoma panel said on the basis of a 20-month, federally financed study that outer continental shelf areas off New England, New Jersey, the Carolinas, Georgia, Florida, in the Gulf of Mexico and off Alaska and Southern California could meet 20 to 30 per cent of the nation's oil needs by 1985.

"We have concluded in this study that these resources can be safely developed," said Dr. Don E. Kash, head of the research group.

"The risk of major degradation to the ocean and coastal environment, and interference with other users, can be made low and we believe the level of risk would be socially acceptable," he said.

The panel recommended a complex 10-year process controlled largely by the U.S. Geological Survey to plan development of the coastal shelf. The main objective would be to see that sea bottom drilling and oil pumping would be carried out with adequate safeguards to the ocean and coastlines.

Financial disaster feared

Compton ordering school expense cuts

By MARK CLUTTER
Staff Writer

The Compton Unified School District, on the verge of financial disaster, has drastically cut expenses in order to keep the schools open during the 1973-74 school year, Dr. Curtis H. Kennedy, superintendent, said Friday.

Kennedy blamed the district's financial woes on a massive decline in enrollment, which has been caused by families moving out of the city to avoid its "turbulent atmosphere and high crime rate."

He said the district also faces reduced property tax revenue as the result of a new state law.

KENNEDY SAID the Board of Trustees had approved a task force from the Los Angeles County superintendent of schools to conduct a thorough study of finances, business management practices and personnel practices.

A consultant staff will study enrollment trends, housing school staffing and business management, he added. The study, which will begin Sept. 18, is scheduled for completion by Dec. 11 when recommendations will be made to the board.

Meanwhile, however, Kennedy said the district will be forced to function minus $2 million in state funds. He added the financial crisis began last year when the district enrollment dropped by 2,100 students.

"Our reserve was wiped out," the superintendent said. "We cut back on services and did not replace any personnel. In addition, we cut out all field trips except those that were federally funded."

"We also trimmed $300,000 from our substitute teacher budget," said Kennedy. "From January to June, administrative personnel, including the superintendent, acted as substitute teachers."

Kennedy said the district cut maintenance costs by $300,000 but that cutting corners on maintenance budgets "can't be continued for any length of time."

The superintendent, terming the cutbacks "paper decisions," said that even with a "hard line on expenditures, we ended up with a $500,000 deficit."

He said 85 per cent of the district's budget consists of salaries, while 11 per cent goes to fixed services. "We simply didn't have $2 million to cut," Kennedy explained.

THOUGH THERE have been some rumors of a teachers' strike within the district, the superintendent said he didn't think his employees would walk out.

"I have talked to leaders of all employee organizations, and they have agreed to try to keep things calm until we see what is recommended on Dec. 11," Kennedy said.

The superintendent described the district's financial troubles as the result of declining enrollment and loss of property tax revenues under new state laws.

Though 51 per cent of the city's population is under 20 years of age, the schools have trouble filling their kindergarten classrooms, Kennedy explained.

"In 1970, there were 41,000 children in school. This year there will be 36,000," he added.

"Let's face it, the turbulent situation in this city, with its high crime rate, is causing families to move out. This is especially true for families with young children," Kennedy said.

"Those with children in high school try to hold on, so the decline in enrollment is showing up in the secondary schools."

"There are 500 vacant houses in the district, and taxes on many of them are delinquent," the superintendent added. He said with 130 classrooms vacant, there was no alternative but to close some of the schools.

Also behind the district's belt-tightening is a new state law, which lops some $2.88 off the city's tax rate of $6.91 per $100 of assessed valuation. Compton currently operates with one of the highest tax rates in the state.

To further complicate matters, teachers are becoming more and more discontented with their salaries, which are the lowest of any large district in Los Angeles or Orange counties.

THE AVERAGE pay scale for 19 other districts ranges from $8,134 to $16,559. In Compton, the scale goes from $7,350 to $15,205.

"Wages were revised when the unified district was formed in 1970," Kennedy said. He added that raises were given at that time, but no pay hikes were given in 1971.

"In 1972 there was a 5 per cent raise. Now we wait. There is no money for raises," the superintendent explained.

He said other teachers, disenchanted with the district because they feel their "principals do not support them," are demanding more professional recognition.

"They don't want to be treated like hired hands. They are trained professionals, and they should participate in policy making."

Kennedy characterized the district's teachers as a group of people who are "deeply concerned about the welfare of the children and the community. They want an environment conducive to teaching," he added.

THOUGH THE Compton schools have been plagued for years by disorders, rioting and numerous acts of classroom and campus violence, Kennedy said the district "has made great progress."

He cites the "hard-line attack" taken by the district, the community and the police for alleviating the problems of recent years. "We get close cooperation from the probation department and the district attorney's office, and we invite and receive the cooperation of parents," the superintendent said.

Kennedy said the district has the leadership to achieve its goals, but that administrators must face the reality of drastic financial cutbacks.

A North American Rockwell spokesman gave this list of dates and times: today, 7:35 p.m.; Sunday, 8:28 p.m.; Monday, 7:46 p.m.; Tuesday, 8:40 p.m.; Wednesday, 7:57 p.m.; Friday, 8:10 p.m.; and next Saturday, 7:27 p.m.

The spokesman said the space station will be visible for about five minutes, and travel from north to east the first three nights and from northwest to south the last four nights.

Approximate elevation will be between 11 and 69 degrees, he added.

Land tax aid offered oldsters

Senior citizen's property tax assistance for those who have not filed their claims will be provided from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Wednesday at Anderson Memorial Recreation Center, 828 S. Mesa St., San Pedro.

To be eligible for property tax assistance, claimants must be 62 years of age or older as of Jan. 1, 1973, must own and occupy their own home, must have paid the property tax on the home and must have an income of less than $10,000.

Qualified homeowners can obtain forms from any Senior Citizens Property Tax Assistance office, or by writing to Senior Citizens Property Tax Assistance, P.O. Box 1588, Sacramento, Calif., 95807.

Approximately 292,000 senior citizens filed valid claims for 1972 and assistance payments of $59 million were made. The average payment was $202.

King Hospital staffs key job

Dr. Haragopal Thadepalli, 3101 Golden Ave., Long Beach, has been appointed the first member of the infectious diseases division of the Martin Luther King Jr. General Hospital in Willowbrook.

The Long Beach physician has also been appointed assistant professor of medicine at the Charles R. Drew Postgraduate Medical School.

HE MOVES to King-Drew from UCLA and the Sepulveda Veterans Administration Hospital. He will now hold a joint appointment in the USC School of Medicine's department of medicine.

Dr. Thadepalli was born in Chittoor, Andhra Pradesh State, India, and received his medical degree from Gunter Medical College, Andhra University, in 1960. He took postdoctoral training in India and then interned at Doctors Hospital, Seattle, Wash., and was a resident at Norwegian-American and Cook County hospitals of Chicago. He served as a fellow in infectious dis-

New medical information phone rings and rings

By BEN ZINSER
Medical-Science Editor

Orange County residents have sought special medical information from a new telephone program more than 3,200 times in a month's time, it was announced Friday by the Orange County Medical Association.

The medical society sponsors the new service known as Tel-Med.

Residents can dial 835-2221 and listen to a taped discussion on more than 100 medical topics or health problems.

The caller, after dialing the Tel-Med number, asks for a tape either by number or by subject matter.

More than 400 of the calls received to date have been from children.

Requests for the complete list of available tapes are mailed promptly to the caller's home address, business address, school library or wherever the caller specifies.

Tel-Med operators are on duty from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. On weekends and holidays an automatic answer encourages the caller to phone again during Tel-Med hours.

Among topics available are poisons in the home, birth-control methods, problems of pregnancy, cancer, venereal disease, effects of drugs, and medical problems such as backache, stroke, flu, acne, dandruff, ulcers, constipation, gout, high blood pressure, leg cramps, epileptic convulsions, emphysema, pink eye, arthritis, glaucoma, hearing loss, appendicitis, psoriasis, hepatitis, varicose veins, colitis, heart attack and heart failure.

The service has been effective since

Aug. 1, 1973. The service will start in Long Beach Oct. 1 under the auspices of Memorial Hospital Medical Center of Long Beach. Details, including the phone number, will be announced soon.

U.S. proposes driving curbs in Cal. desert

United Press International

The U.S. Bureau of Land Management proposed a recreational plan for the Southern California Desert Friday that would ban off-road vehicles from 22 areas while allowing them virtually unlimited access to 15 other zones.

In the bulk of the 12 million desert acres administered by the BLM, off-road vehicles would be put under some form of restriction, such as confinement to existing or designated roads and trails.

The proposals, announced in Los Angeles, were contained in a preliminary California Desert off-road vehicle management plan formulated under the BLM's long-range California Desert plan.

"This draft plan provides a management framework for the maximum recreational use of the California Desert consistent with protection of natural resources and environmental values," said J.R. Penny, California state director for the BLM.

THE PRELIMINARY plan was put together following discussions by BLM personnel with local governments, off-road vehicle organizations and other desert users. Penny invited the same organizations and the public to comment on the draft by Oct. 16 so that their views can be incorporated into the final plan which will be completed by Nov. 1.

Four mobile exhibit units containing maps and a summary of the plan were to four Southern California cities beginning Sunday.

Penny said the off-road vehicle plan was in line with President Nixon's executive order last year directing federal agencies to come up with programs for off-road vehicle management on all federal lands.

The desert was a particularly critical area because use there is growing faster than the recreation tional use of any other environment, he said.

APPROXIMATELY 70 per cent of the 11 million visitor days of recreational use of the desert last year involved off-road vehicles in some way, Penny said.

Southern California had 500,000 four-wheel drive vehicles registered last year and 1.2 million of the state's 1.8 million motorcycles.

Areas closed to all off-road vehicles under the plan include: Darwin Falls, Desert Tortoise Preserve, Amargosa Canyon, Clark Mountain, Kelsu Dunes, Turtle Mountains interior, Bigelow Cholla area, Whipple Mountains, Orocoia Mountain, Sal Creek, Desert Lily area, San Felipe Creek, Coyote Mountain, Painted Gorge, Fossil Canyon, Yuma Basin, Imperial Sand Hills north of Highway 78, Saline Valley north end, Plank Road historic site, Crucifixion Thorn area, Amboy Crater and Mecca Hills interior.

The open areas with virtually no restrictions include: Olancha, Dove Springs, Rand Mountain-Rademacher area, Devils Playground, Stoddard Valley, Melville Lake, Cadiz Valley, Danby Lake, Shavers Valley, Palen Valley-Ford Dry Lake, Little Chuckwalla, Plaster City, Imperial Sand Hills south of Highway 78, Buttercup Valley and Dumont Dunes northwest portion.

ADDITIONALLY, 17 areas were recommended for "special design" for intensive management to ease conflicts among users—such as vehicles and campers—and to protect natural resources.

But it's still 'give me a C-S-U-L-B, Rah!'

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Gov. Reagan Sunday will sign a bill aimed at putting more zing in the names of four state universities, his office said Friday.

The measure (SB381) by Sen. Alfred E. Alquist, D-San Jose, easily sailed through the Legislature with its supporters arguing "there's no way to work out football yells" for the schools' current names.

The legislation affects campuses in San Diego,

San Jose, Areata and San Francisco. Currently they are known as "California State University, San Diego (or San Jose, etc.)." Alquist's bill will change their names to put the city first such as San Jose State University or San Francisco State University. The Long Beach campus was not mentioned.

When Alquist introduced the bill last March, he said, "who in their right mind would be stirred by a yell: C-S-U-L-B, rah-rah."

The initials refer to the San Jose campus.

During debate on the bill, Senate President Pro Tem James R. Mills, D-San Diego, declared, "There's no way to work out football yells for the new names."

Mills is a graduate of San Diego State.

The 19 state college and state university campuses used to be known as California state colleges. But under 1972 legislation by former Assemblyman E. Richard Barnes, R-San Diego, fourteen have since been renamed California state universities.

Sen. Dennis E. Carpenter, R-Newport Beach, opposed Alquist's measure, complaining, "this is the kind of silliness that results from us making the change in the first place." The San Diego and San Jose campuses were among the leading backers of the name-change last year and also supported Alquist's bill to alter their names once again this year.

Finch critical of tax issue on ballot

By BOB HOUSER Political Editor

SAN DIEGO—Robert H. Finch, former lieutenant governor to Ronald Reagan and more recently an adviser to President Nixon, said Friday that Reagan has structured his November tax initiative as a "popularity contest."

Finch refused a categorical stand on the initiative and said he will withhold one until he talks with the governor about it later in the week. But Finch did tell newsmen here to cover the three-day state Republican convention that the Reagan tax limitation initiative "is not the kind of issue that ought to be an initiative."

THE INITIATIVE lends itself to such issues as the death penalty or marijuana, Finch said, but not to the "complex tax situation" involved in the Nov. 6 Reagan tax proposition.

The result of that election, which Finch said he thinks will be very close, may also give Reagan "a hook" on which to reassess his own plans, Finch said.

The intimation was that a large success might wheel Reagan's presidential inclination and that something less might be used by more parochial California supporters as leverage to get Reagan to run for a third term as governor.

Finch said he will announce his decision on whether he will run and for what office—governor or U.S. senator—within 30 to 60 days but certainly before the end of the year.

Southland said facing critical lack of power

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Critical power shortages will hit Southern California by springtime, the head of the state Public Utilities Commission said Friday.

Vernon L. Sturgeon said all California population centers—north and south—would be "very short" of energy before next spring.

"For example, Los Angeles Water and Power Co. predicts that they'll curtail electric power use by 35 per cent by next April," Sturgeon said in an interview published Friday.

Sturgeon said the public has begun only in the past year to grasp the energy shortage that power officials have been talking about for four years.

Sturgeon outlined a six-point program for coping with the shortage, "starting with the least offensive suggestion and going down the list."

"They would first blackout outdoor billboards at night."

"Next, blackout outdoor advertising—identification advertising on service stations, restaurants, retail stores, any kind of outdoor signs."

"Next, they would limit the hours shopping centers and retail stores could operate to 12 hours a day, five days a week."

"Sporting events would have to be held in the daytime. Night sporting events would be prohibited."

"Limit shift operations to a single shift. You can quickly see the results of that. With a plant operating three shifts, two would be laid off."

"A rotating blackout by sections of the town—Everybody would have to take his turn of a half hour or an hour," Sturgeon said.

Sturgeon said the rotating blackout would be an inconvenience but that it was better than a five per cent power cutback such as experienced by Eastern utilities. Low-voltage operations, he said, burn up equipment.

As for the Pacific Gas and Electric Co., which supplies much of Northern California, Sturgeon said, "As late as last year, it was able to burn 90 per cent natural gas to generate energy and 10 per cent oil. That percentage of natural gas use will decline by the end of 1976 to near nothing."

"What this means," Sturgeon said, "is that last year PG&E burned two million barrels of low sulphur oil. Air pollution restrictions won't let them burn anything but low sulphur oil."

Their estimated requirements for next year are 42 million barrels and they haven't been able to find a source for that 42 million barrels. Their search has been worldwide, but they have not found the additional oil they will need."

$12 million set for child care projects

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—

Wilson Riles, California's school chief, said Friday that $12 million would be distributed to expand care programs for the children of low-income, working parents.

The money, authorized by 1972 legislation, will enable several thousand more children to attend care centers, said Riles, state superintendent of public instruction.

Of the total, he said, $5 million will go to 80 centers operated by school districts, allowing expansion to serve 2,800 more children.

Another $7 million will go to 40 additional child care projects, permitting 3,400 more children to be served, he said.

Masters' remap plan praised by controller

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—The state Supreme Court Masters' reapportionment plan gives Republicans "the opportunity to compete fairly with the Democrats in the Legislature" for the first time in 10 years, State Controller Hugh Flournoy said Friday.

"The results should be encouraging for us Republicans," he said. "Voters in 10 of the 15 existing marginal districts have elected Republican assemblymen."

"Clearly, when the chips are down, the Republican Party can compete and win. It is my opinion that we may even be able to recapture control of the Assembly," said Flournoy, a contender for the Republican gubernatorial nomination in 1974.

"The real virtue of the plans does not, however, lie in any advantage that may be gained by either political party," he said in remarks prepared for the Republican Associates of San Diego County. "Under this plan, the people of California could all be the real winners."

Contrary to misplaced rumor, that isle "26 miles across the sea" does not sink back into the blue Pacific just after Labor Day each year. No, Catalina is alive and well and bobbing gracefully just off the Long Beach shoreline.

To prove it, I.P.T. staffers this week take divergent looks at Catalina, its past, its future and the present. Mary Corlton examines the rebirth of a nostalgic Catalina. David Levinson scans the possibility and the problems of further housing development on the island. And Bob Gore finds it, as always, a paradise for kids, especially at Catalina's unique Camp Fox.

Ministers say parents wrong in tragedy

'Faith healing' confidence not shaken

By LES RODNEY

"Divine healing" is a fact which is not called into question by the tragic events which took the life of an 11-year-old diabetic boy in Barstow, say two leading Southland Pentecostal ministers.

Rev. Ralph Wilkerson of Melodyland Christian Center in Anaheim, and Rev. Wesley P. Steelberg of Long Beach Christian

Life Church agreed this week that the Barstow parents went off the biblical track. (Young Wesley Parker died when his parents allegedly withheld his insulin because they believed he had been healed during a visiting evangelist's "healing service.")

Faith healing has long been a source of disagreement among Christians.

Many feel it is a sensationalized and distorted aspect of evangelism which discredited religion, and often crosses the line into shady practices. Skeptics say the apparent cures reported are in medical areas where psychology can sometimes help, at least temporarily, but that alleged cures of cancer, restoration of lost limbs and eyesight, etc., are fakes. Kathryn Kuhlman, a Pentecostal minister who is perhaps America's most famed conductor of "faith healing" services, emphasizes that she does not claim to be a miracle healer, that God is the miracle healer, and her role is to help people get the needed faith. Bible literalists, those who believe in faith healing produce formidable ammunition from Scriptures.

SPEAKING OF the Barstow tragedy, Wilkerson says: "The parents were sincere, but sincerely wrong, and made three mistakes."

The mistakes, which he will discuss in greater detail in a sermon Sunday at 10:30 a.m. in the Anaheim amusement-center-turned-church, are summarized by Wilkerson as follows:

—Attributing their son's condition to demon possession and withholding insulin because of that. According to the Bible, he says, Christians cannot be demon-possessed, though they can come under demonic attack.

—Not seeking medical confirmation. Discontinuation of medicine is a decision only a medical doctor should make.

—Evangelists who conduct healing ministries have an obligation to give their congregations this instruction, says Wilkerson. "Medical confirmation works hand and hand with Christian healing."

At 8,000-member Melodyland, he adds, those who believe they have been healed by God are told to see their doctor for a medical verification and to have a complete physical examination twice a year.

—Mistake number three: "Their idea that no matter what happened, God would resurrect their son if they persisted in prayer. There is no scripture which promises or commands us to raise the dead," Wilkerson, however, believes God has such power, and will tell Sunday of witnessing or examining documentation on numerous body resurrections.

PASTOR STEELBERG, whose thriving church at the meeting of the freeways is affiliated with the Assemblies of God, same denomination as the Barstow church, also stresses medical confirmation.

"We have very specific premises with regard to healing," he said. "To begin with, we definitely believe in divine healing, of course, as being available to any child of God.

Secondly, I respect the medical profession very highly. In fact, at one point in my life I seriously considered becoming a surgeon."

About what happened in Barstow...

"In this kind of thing you find well meaning people who go into religious detours and go off the deep end. I don't know these particular parents personally, but many who are on the periphery of what God is doing supernaturally, do not understand what true faith in God means, and what can be experienced. They have pseudo experiences, and try to make them real."

As a believer in divine healing, Steelberg was asked, does he see the Barstow tragedy as harmful to the real thing?

"Oh, no," was the reply. "What it does, is to give an opportunity for some who would like to hurt confidence in divine healing, to beat a few drums. Actually, the sovereignty of God in the area of healing is perfectly apparent."

Pastor Steelberg, son of a minister, relates that he himself was stricken with polio during a near epidemic when he was seven. "God healed me in 24 hours, with no lasting effects of the polio.

"This was before the days of the iron lung," the minister continued, "and the doctor told my father there was no possible way I could live. The healing was made evident in one day. When another doctor came later to check me, he asked my father where was the boy who had had the polio, he couldn't believe it was me."

DOES STEELBERG attribute his healing to prayer and direct divine intervention?

"Absolutely."

How then distinguish between the faith that produced this medical healing, and the apparently at least equal faith of the Barstow parents that didn't produce a healing?

Steelberg referred to Exodus 15:26, in which God tells Moses the conditions which must be met for his people to be spared the diseases visited upon the Egyptians.

"He says 'I am the Lord who healeth you,' Jehovah Rapha in the Hebrew," the pastor said. "It is His will to heal everybody, but provided they live righteously, and meet the conditions He has set forth in the word of God. We are talking about the sovereignty of God. There is no such thing as a faith healer, as some call themselves. It is God — the Father, Son and Holy Spirit — who is the sovereign healer. He knows who meets all the stated requirements of the word."

Finally, does Steelberg agree with Wilkerson that a Christian cannot be demon possessed, but can come under demonic attack? How exactly would he explain the difference?

"This is a current issue," Steelberg commented. "I say a Christian can't be demon-possessed. Absolutely not. If a person can be demon possessed when under the Lordship of Jesus Christ, then Calvary is worth nothing. It would take away the whole point of the Second Coming."

"NOW BEING under attack by demonic forces is another matter entirely," he continued. "Temptation is not sin. Any person can be subject to temptation, the Bible says plainly. The old adage is apropos — you can't keep birds from flying over your head, but you can keep them from making a nest in your hair. You can't get rid of temptation, but you need not succumb to it. I would emphasize that a person who has a personal experience with Christ need never fear Satan. Paul said sin shall not have dominion over you."

Would a tragedy such as the Barstow death be unlikely to happen in Christian Life Church?

"Very, very unlikely. However, remember, you can't keep some people from formulating ideas of their own, and proceeding on a basis not Bible-founded, following procedures not Bible-based. That doesn't take away the reality of God's healing."

FROM THE PULPIT

DR. FRANK COLLINS

Last week's IPT had an article concerning the Presbyterian Church doing house-to-house visitation in Cerritos. My congratulations to this church. We at Calvary have been doing this for years. This is personal New Testament evangelism. "And daily in the Temple and from house to house they ceased not to preach and teach Jesus."

Much house to house religious work denies the fact that Jesus is God and preaches and teaches a kingdom without a king and salvation without a saviour. It is encouraging to see more and more churches that do have the message of salvation who are sharing it in house-to-house ministry.

The list of the top 100 churches in America in attendance has just been published, and almost without exception they are churches that:

1. Believe and preach the infallibility of the Bible
2. Believe and preach the virgin birth of Christ
3. Believe and preach the death and literal resurrection of Christ
4. Believe and preach the Second Coming of Christ
5. Believe and preach a literal heaven and hell
6. Believe that sin is the transgression of God's law and must carry a penalty
7. Believe in the atoning blood of Christ

We invite you to attend one of the top 100 Sunday Schools in the nation.

Come to Calvary! Calvary is for you!

YOUR HOROSCOPE

by JEANE DIXON

Forecast for Sunday

Aries (March 21 - April 19): Let this be a casual, pleasant Sunday as a nearly uneventful quality as can be managed. Express yourself by quiet action rather than an excess of words.

Taurus (April 20 - May 20): Follow the community weekend customs, leaving commercial activities out of the picture. The image you build by just being your natural self is helpful when you do resume business.

Gemini (May 21 - June 20): Staying put and striving to become a better person offers rewards, as contrasted with rash activity or hasty travel. Provide a gentle environment for social progress; cultivate romance.

Cancer (June 21 - July 22): Whatever you hear by way of rumors or incomplete news, stay on the accustomed rounds of your Sunday observance, reserving for yourself freedom of choice and action.

Leo (July 23 - Aug. 22): In bringing pleasure to those you cherish, you can forget financial concerns. You'll be all the sharper when you get back to them tomorrow. Better terms with neighbors are nearer.

Virgo (Aug. 23 - Sept. 22): Nothing quite settles into final resolution this Sunday, nor does anything run to crisis if you remain serene and peaceful. Interesting activities to keep you on the go.

Libra (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22): You will be strongly tempted to take some action to improve or terminate a lingering condition, with results beyond what you plan or expect. Find time for reflection, prayer.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 - Nov. 21): Long-hidden reactions come out where you can observe them, speculate what must have happened. Make this an easy Sunday. Give thought to picking up neglected contacts, and short-range plans.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 - Dec. 21): Whatever your neighborhood, its faults and shortcomings are apt to come to your attention. Leave for a visit elsewhere, or concentrate on your own family and its probably noisy doings.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19): For the gifted, this Sunday is a potential leap of creative achievement. For all, this is the time to do and see something different. Even the familiar can be reexperienced in a naive sense.

Aquarius (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18): All things considered, it's as peaceful a Sunday as you're likely to have for many months — make the most of it. Religious activities deserve your special attention and support.

Pisces (Feb. 19 - March 20): Be introspective; turn your attention and concern onto yourself. Find what you lack; move to supply your needs. Time for prayer is now; the guidance you get is for all time.

IN THE

INDEPENDENT PRESS-TELEGRAM

HERE ARE THE SIMPLE RULES TO PLAY GOAL LINE GOLD

Simply cut out and mark your winning team or tie game choices on the entry ballot which appears Sunday through Thursday in the sports pages of the Independent and Press-Telegram. Weekly ballots must be received by these newspapers before 5 p.m. each Friday. Entries can be delivered to the I, P-T's downtown Long Beach offices at 604 Pine Ave., or mailed to Independent, Press-Telegram, Goal Line Gold Contest, P.O. Box 700, Long Beach, Ca. 90801. Entries received by mail or personal delivery after 5 p.m. Fridays will be disqualified from competition for that week, so mailed ballots should be sent early!

Each week a specific game score will serve as the tie breaker when two or more entries guess the same number of correct winners. The guess closest to the final score receives the cash prize. A second tie breaker is your guess of the half-time score of the same game. There are likely to be some ties so enter with a new ballot each day and increase your chance to win. Sorry, no more than five entries from each individual can be accepted. Prize money will be allotted as follows: First Prize $100. Second Prize $25. Daily home delivery subscribers to the Independent or Press-Telegram will receive an extra cash bonus of $50 for first prize and $25 for second prize. Total cash prizes given away each week: up to $200. To qualify for bonus prize money, entrants must be subscribers as of Friday of each week's contest. All entries must be on the official entry ballot or a reasonable facsimile of the same size. Entries become the property of the Independent, Press-Telegram, and the decisions of the judges are final. No purchase is necessary to play Goal Line Gold. The contest is open to everyone except Independent, Press-Telegram employees and their families.

Libbers to compete with Adams, Rickles

By BOB MARTIN
TV-Radio Editor

A woman's place, many males used to say (Bobby Riggs still does), is in the bedroom and the kitchen. But more and more women are speaking out against that view these days, and some of them will have their say on an hour-long television special, called "Woman's Place," airing on ABC (Channel 7) at 9 tonight.

The ABC News special was written and produced by Marlene Sanders, identified as Ms. Sanders in publicity releases, so it can be assumed that those persons who are questioning women's traditional roles will be well represented on the program.

Network spokesmen — or should I say spokespeople — report that "a wide range of professionals, housewives, prominent personalities and women blue collar workers" will take part. Bess Myerson is narrator.

"Today," Ms. Sanders says, "women are questioning their traditional roles and searching for new ones. But before we can find our way into new territory, we must know where we have been and how we got there. This is an important part of what 'Woman's Place' is all about.

"Many will choose to keep things as they have always been, but choice is the point of it all — the freedom to determine our futures.

"True freedom of choice means that the society — its laws and customs — will have to change, and they are beginning to change now.

"Woman's place today? Our real place should be — and will be — anywhere and everywhere, wherever our dreams, our energy, our aspirations and our abilities may lead us."

I won't quarrel with that.

I CAN'T SAY just exactly where woman's place will be this afternoon, but I feel downright positive that man's place will be in front of the TV set, watching the UCLA Bruins take on the Nebraska Cornhuskers at Lincoln, Neb.

It's a truly great opener for the college football season, and it starts at 1:45 p.m. on Channel 7. The game will be repeated at 11 tonight on Channel 5. The pregame show will start at 1:30 on Channel 7, and radio coverage will begin at 1:25 on KBIG.

A COMEDY special of considerable promise will air on NBC tonight in competition with "Woman's Place." It's called "A Couple of Dons" and stars Don Rickles and Don Adams.

Joining the Dons for an hour of comedy sketches and songs will be the Jackson Sisters, a young singing group, and guest star Sally Kellerman, actress-singer who both sings and appears in skits with Adams and Rickles.

Highlights include "Hooray for Hollywood," a series of satirical sketches of famous movies, and the roasting by Rickles of a number of celebrities in the audience.

THE MISS AMERICA Pageant in Atlantic City will be covered from 10 p.m. to midnight on NBC (Channel 4).

This marks the 53rd year of the pageant and the 20th year it has been televised. Bert Parks will be back as host for the 19th year, and this time he'll have ex-Miss Ameri-

TOP VIEWING TODAY

COLLEGE FOOTBALL, 1:45 p.m., Ch. 7. The 1973 college football season gets under way in dramatic fashion as two highly rated teams, the UCLA Bruins and the Nebraska Cornhuskers, clash at Lincoln, Neb. (Tapes of this game can be seen at 11 tonight on Ch. 5.)

A COUPLE OF DONS, 9 p.m., Ch. 4. Comedians Don Adams and Don Rickles star in hour-long special, which features spoofs of a number of movies. Sally Kellerman and the Jackson Sisters are guests.

WOMAN'S PLACE, 9 p.m., Ch. 7. One-hour special examines the myths and realities of growing up in America and how women's roles are changing. Bess Myerson is narrator.

MISS AMERICA PAGEANT, 10 p.m., Ch. 4. Fifty finalists, representing all states, compete in 53rd annual pageant in Atlantic City, N.J., and one will be crowned Miss America of 1974. It's a two-hour special.

Court vs. Goolagong

All-Aussie flavor to U.S. finals 2 shots off lead

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. — Margaret Court, the grand dame of women's tennis, won an exciting 104-minute baseline duel over Chris Evert Friday 7-5, 2-6, 6-2 and set up the first all-Australian ladies' final in the history of the U.S. Open Tennis Championships.

The 31-year-old Mrs. Court was joined in the last round — just a breath away from the $25,000 first prize — by the brilliantly erratic, 20-year-old Evonne Goolagong, who struggled to a 6-1, 4-6, 6-4 triumph over obscure, unseeded Helga Masthoff, a former Berlin fashion model.

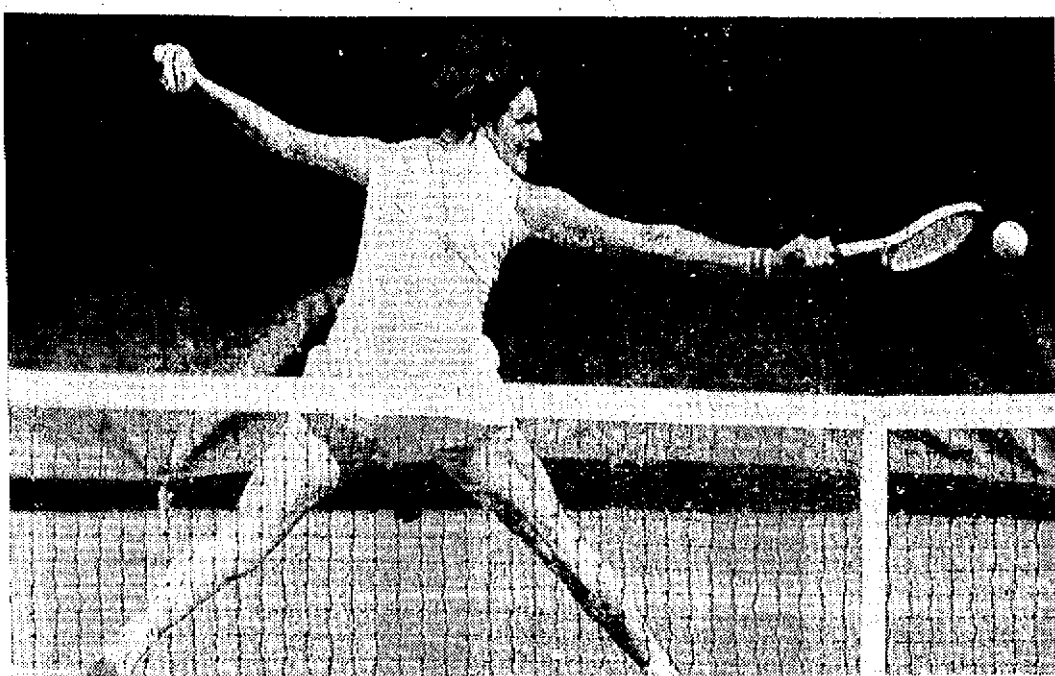

Evonne almost didn't make it.

After winning the first set handily, the pretty, kinky-haired girl from Australia's outback blew the second set and fell behind 1-4 in the third with one of her notorious lapses in concentration.

She jokingly refers to it as a "walkabout" — a term meaning "day dreaming" which she learned as the daughter of a part aboriginal sheep herder.

The two Aussies — 11 years difference in their ages — will play at 9 a.m. PDT, the match to be followed by the best three-of-five set battles in the men's semifinals.

Top-seeded Stan Smith of Sea Pines, S.C., plays Wimbledon titleholder Jan Kodes of Czechoslovakia. Ken Rosewall, 38, the ageless wonder who made his

QUEEN OF THE COURT

Thirty-one-year-old Mrs. Margaret Court of Australia has confident look as she backhands shot Friday against Chris Evert. Mrs. Court won 7-5, 2-6, 6-2 and will face Evonne Goolagong today in finals.

Forest Hills debut 21 years ago, meets a fellow Australian, John Newcombe, 29.

The men's final, also with a $25,000 first prize, is scheduled Sunday with Smith, rated the world's No. 1 player, the favorite.

Mrs. Court will be seeking her fifth U.S. championship — her sixth if you count the two she won in the amateur event after the game had gone open in 1968 — and to add to a cache of laurels that also include three Wimbledon titles, five French and 11 Australian.

Margaret was alternately deadly and patchy in her match against the 18-year-old Miss Evert, America's court darling from Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

Margaret lost to Evonne Goolagong when the latter won Wimbledon in 1971 but has beaten her Australian rival in their last five meetings.

Evonne is still an enigma on the courts, a young woman of infinite skill and natural instinct who seems always to be playing for the fun of it. If her thinking on the court matched her innate ability, she would be almost unbeatable.

So it was against Mrs. Masthoff, the former Helga Niessen, who came through the bracket vacated by the tournament favorite, Billie Jean King, when she defaulted to Julie Heldman of Housewives.

WOMEN'S SINGLES
SEMI-FINALS: Margaret Court (Australia) def. Chris Evert (U.S.), 7-5, 2-6, 6-2; Evonne Goolagong (Australia) def. Helga Masthoff (West Germany), 6-1, 4-6, 6-4.
CHAMPIONSHIP: John Newcombe (Australia) def. Rod Laver and Ken Rosewall (Australia), 7-5, 6-3, 7-5.

Schroeder tops

In Southern Open

COLUMBUS, Ga. (AP) — John Schroeder, bursting into prominence after 4½ years of virtual obscurity on the pro tour, shook off a double bogey and charging Gary Player Friday for a sizzling 65 and a two-stroke lead after two rounds of the $100,000 Southern Open Golf Tournament.

Schroeder, the 27-year-old son of former tennis great Ted Schroeder, also had to overcome the humid, 97-degree sunshine that baked the 6,791-yard, par 70, Green Island Country Club course to post a 36-hole total of 132.

The La Jolla, Calif., youngster came in with eight birdies including six on the back nine, three coming on the final three holes after he recorded his double bogey six on the par-four 440-yard 15th hole.

After his near disaster on 15, Schroeder lost a share of the lead to Player, who also shot a 65, before rebounding with his finishing string of birdies, which included a spectacular 35-footer on 17.

Long Beach's Terry Small just made the cut Friday, carding a 69 to place him at 144. Most of the top names are missing from the tournament.

APPOINT JIM HARDY COLISEUM MANAGER

Jim Hardy, who quarterbacked the Southern California Trojans to a 1944 Rose Bowl triumph, was appointed general manager of the Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum and Sports Arena Friday.

Hardy, 50, will assume duties Oct. 1 of one of the world's most lucrative sports complexes. He will succeed William H. Nicholas, who reached mandatory retirement age after nearly 28 years in the position.

Hardy has worked in insurance and public relations businesses since serving as general manager of the Los Angeles Stars of the American Basketball Assn., before the team moved to Salt Lake City.

The native of Los Angeles played for Southern Cal from 1942 through 1944, then went on to play professionally for the Rams, St. Louis Cardinals and Detroit Lions.

'Best manager' Herzog fired

ARLINGTON, Tex. (UPI) — Texas Ranger owner Bob Short, who four months ago declared Whitey Herzog "the best damn manager in baseball," fired Herzog Friday night.

Del Wilber, who managed the Ranger farm club in Spokane, Wash., to the Pacific Coast League championship this season, replaced Herzog as interim manager of the team with the worst record in baseball.

"I understand now I made a mistake when I asked Whitey to manage the club," said Short at a news conference before Friday night's Oakland-Texas game. "Last year I deliberately avoided choosing a man with managerial experience. This time I'm looking for a person with that experience."

"I've already talked to some potential candidates. I could name the new manager very soon. It could be quick."

Despite the Rangers' lowly record (47-91 going into Friday night's game), Herzog's firing was a shock to those close to the team.

Herzog, 41, who was hired from the New York Mets organization to replace Ted Williams last winter, had developed a rapport with his players, the fans and the news media.

Short admitted that his action would not meet with approval from the fans.

"I realize I won't be lauded for anything I've done here today," Short said.

Herzog was the third major league manager to be fired in the past week. Detroit's Billy Martin was fired Sunday as a result of his bouts with baseball's hierarchy and Bill Virdon was dismissed Thursday by Pittsburgh.

Early in the season the Rangers showed signs of shaking their image as the worst team in baseball, particularly when 18-year-old David Clyde was drafted No. 1 and promptly won his first major league start.

After that victory, which came before the first and thus far only sellout crowd in the two-year history of the Rangers, Short raced into the Ranger locker room, hoisted Herzog off his feet and cried out: "You're the best damn manager in baseball."

Freestyle relay record for U.S.

BELGRADE (UPI) — The United States men's 800 meter freestyle relay team set a world record and a pair of 16-year-olds, Heather Greenwood and Melissa Belote, picked up more gold medals to boost the United States ahead of East Germany Friday at the World Swimming Championships.

The relay squad, which barely qualified for the final, clocked seven minutes 33.22 seconds in a swim made all the more amazing because it came from the unfavored eighth lane.

Kurt Krumpholtz of Irvine, Calif., swam the opening 200 meters, followed by Robin Backhaus of Redlands, Calif., Rick Klatt of Albuquerque, N.M., and Jim Montgomery of Madison, Wis.

The old record of 7:35.78 was set at the 1972 Olympics by the team of John Kinsella, Fred Tyler, Steve Genter and Mark Spitz.

U.S. coach Gus Stager had used his second string in the qualifying heats in the morning. One of the swimmers, Rex Favero of Sacramento, Calif., had a stomach upset but didn't tell anyone about it.

The team finished in eighth place, just enough to get a place in the final. The United States now has a 13-10-5 medal total to East Germany's 10-4-7.

Miss Greenwood of Fresno, Calif., upset Keena Rothhammer, the world record holder from Santa Clara, Calif., in the 400 meter freestyle in a time of 4:20.28 as the United States swept in ahead of Italy's Novella Calligaris, who established a European record.

Sweden, meanwhile, won its first gold medals. Gunnar Larsson, one-time competitor at Long Beach State, failed to improve on his world record in the men's 200-meter individual medley but held off Stan Carper of Portland, Ore., in a cliff-hanger finish. Larsson's time was 2:03.36 — a second outside the record.

Blalock on top by 2 with 69

DALLAS (UPI) — Defending champion Jane Blalock rushed from out of the pack on the back nine with three birdies and jumped into a two-stroke lead over five golfers Friday after the opening round of the $35,000 Dallas Civitan Ladies Open.

Miss Blalock put together a 33-36-89 over the 6,200-yard par 72 Brookhaven Country Club course. Four other golfers were grouped at even par 72 including 18-year-old Laura Baugh.

Miss Blalock, a winner only once this year, made the turn in even-par 36, but then drilled in birdie putts of 25, six, and eight feet coming in.

Baseball Tale of the Tape

NEARER, EVER NEARER

Needing just six more home runs to tie Babe Ruth's total of 714, Henry Aaron plays his next five games at home in Atlanta.

VIKINGS, HARBOR SCRIMMAGE TODAY

Long Beach City College takes on Harbor in a 4:30 p.m. scrimmage today on the LBCC field.

The public is invited to watch the action in which LBCC coach Gary Jacobsen and his staff hope to firm up the offensive and defensive units which take the field at Grossmont Saturday.

Jacobsen said Thursday's scrimmage with Fullerton, although ragged, provided several answers to questions about starters.

He singled out tailback Mike Mallet, who scooted 70 yards for a touchdown and Terry Tautolo, in his initial linebacking assignment, for jobs well done against the Hornets.

Olympic track clinic at L.B. State today

The public is invited ($2) to attend a celebrity-led clinic today and Sunday at Long Beach State University.

Emerson heads field at Newport

Roy Emerson, former world champion, heads the field in the junior veteran (35 and over) division of the Pacific South-west Senior Tennis Championships, starting Monday at the Newport Beach Tennis Club.

Emerson, an Australian native now living in Newport Beach, will be playing in his first senior tournament.

Seeded behind the Aussie star are Alex Olmedo, Barry MacKay, Pancho Segura, Don Kierbow, Bob Perry, Gordon Davis and Whitney Reed, in that order.

Olmedo-Segura are top-seeded in junior veteran doubles, followed by Emerson-Sven Davidson, Kierbow-Reed and Mike Franks-Forrest Stewart.

Sam Match will defend his title in senior men's (45 and over) singles and Dick Mattee-Bob Sherman in senior doubles.

The meet will continue daily through next Sunday.

McKay enjoys Trojans' zip

The University of Southern California Trojans drew some praise from their coach as the squad went through its first one-a-day drill Friday.

"We looked awfully quick today. We showed good zip," said Trojan coach John McKay, who reserved some of his kind words for defensive tackle Glenn Byrd.

McKay said Byrd "had his best day of practice since he's been at USC." The junior from Oakland played only 43 minutes last year but has been penciled in as a possible starter this season.

Eastern League

PLAYOFFS Reading 11, Pittsfield 2 (Reading wins best-of-five series, 3-1).

Texas League

PLAYOFFS Memphis at San Antonio (game out).

Bill Bowerman, coach of the U.S. Olympic Games track and field team in 1972, and Steve Prefontaine, America's front-running middle distance star, will demonstrate technique and discuss race strategy.

They will be joined by Tracy Smith, record holder at the indoor three-mile run; Doug Schmenk, National AAU marathon champion in 1973; Bill Scobey, veteran marathoner; coach Laszlo Tabari, third man in history to break the four-minute mile barrier; Dr. Jack Rose, who recently retired after coaching Long Beach State's track team for 18 years, and Dr. John Pagliano, expert in care and prevention of running injuries.

The Nike-Long Beach State Clinic will commence today with sessions at 9-11 a.m. and 1-7 p.m. on the State track and in the student union, and conclude Sunday in the school gymnasium, 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Playoff test for Lakewood

SEATTLE (Special)—Lakewood Sure Brake drew Poughkeepsie, New York for its first-round opponent in the National Amateur Softball Assn. tournament today at 2:45 p.m.

The New Yorkers have a 56.16 record while Lakewood, Pacific Coast League champion, is 40-5 for the year. Steve Birmingham is expected to start for Sure Brake.

There are 20 teams in the double elimination test that concludes on Sept. 15. The Raybestos Cardinals of Stratford, Connecticut are the defending champs.

Workout sub-par for Secretariat

NEW YORK (UPI)—Secretariat, the Triple Crown winner, worked out at Belmont Park Friday in preparation for the Sept. 15 running of the $250,000 Marlboro Cup and trainer Lucien Laurin was a little disappointed with the colt's performance.

With jockey Ron Turcotte in the saddle, Secretariat worked out a mile in 1:37 handily and then was eased up slightly. The son of Bold Ruler then finished 1 1/4 miles in 1:50 and 1 1/2 miles in 2:04 1/5.

McKeever ready to join Eagles

The Philadelphia Eagles announced Friday that they would sign 12-year veteran linebacker Marlin McKeever "sometime next week."

through the preseason, said McKeever passed a required physical Thursday, prompting coach Mike McCormack to say he was "hopeful he'll sign next week."

McKeever, 33, played with the Rams, Vikings and Redskins before being picked up on waivers by San Diego two weeks ago. He then decided to retire.

McKeever and McCormack will discuss contract terms next week after the former USC player attends to "some personal things."

Meanwhile, Roman Gabriel gets his final tuneup tonight as the Eagles' No. 1 quarterback in the final exhibition game against the New York Jets at Tampa, Fla.

"I knew Roman was No. 1 when they got him," said backup QB John Reaves. "That's just the way it is. My time will come."

There was a pep rally for the Washington Redskins Friday but Duane Thomas, who hasn't said much in the nation's capital since coming from San Diego, wasn't there.

Thomas also was 40 minutes late for practice Friday morning and coach George Allen said he would be fined for his tardy appearance.

Allen, who introduced the entire squad to the audience, declined to comment on the failure of Thomas to appear at the pep rally luncheon.

CARDINALS—Traded cornerback Miller Farr to Lions for undrafted draft choice, the veteran defensive back thus joins his brother, running back Mel Farr.

BEARS—Claimed rookie quarterback Randy Clyburn on waivers from Bills, placed defensive end Leo Thomas on taxi squad. Initially will be a Green Colts for the No. 10 QB spot, before Ken Anderson and Virgil Carter.

STEELERS—Activated offensive tackle John Kohl and defensive end Craig Hanceman; deactivated running back Franco Harris and line receiver Frank Lewis due to injuries.

CHARGERS—San Diego and Minnesota, two of 1973's biggest draft busts, wind up their exhibition season against each other tonight in San Diego. Chargers cut three-year veteran receiver Chuck Givens and deactivated three players because of injuries: Linebacker Beauchamp, Greg Wozniak and Jim Thaxton.

Gabelich returns, vies in drag meet at Oakland

OAKLAND (Special)—World land speed record holder Gary Gabelich, nearly killed 17 months ago, returns to speed competition this weekend — on water.

Gabelich will compete in the National Drag Boat Assn. national meet, driving "Mr. Ed."

On April 7 of 1972 Gabelich was testing a competition funny car at Orange County Raceway when the vehicle went out of control, crashed into a guard rail and burned. Gabelich suffered a crushed leg, virtually severed hand and other injuries but has recuperated intact.

He also plans to drive "Mr. Ed" in a drag boat meet at Marine Stadium in Long Beach later this month.

His land speed record of 622.407 mph, set at Bonneville two years ago, still stands.

Allison wins pole

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Bobby Allison of Hueytown, Ala., whipped his Chevrolet around the Fairgrounds Raceway track at a speed of 90.25 miles per hour Friday and won the pole position for Sunday's Capital City 500 Grand National stock car race.

GARDENING

By JOE LITTLEFIELD

Ask 10 professional gardeners if they like a 'pi-um graveolens (gra-vee' o-len-z). The chances are, most of them haven't even heard the name, though it is a commonly known vegetable... celery, of the carrot family! It is a Eurasian biennial planted one year to harvest the next year. Though listed as a biennial, one of the leading seed houses lists three varieties of celery seed. The seed-started plants are listed to grow to maturity from 115 to 135 days depending upon the climate and variety.

Now, before we proceed further about the celery blooms, there's a horticultural term, bolt, which means to produce seeds prematurely. It aptly fits vegetables that sometimes (bolt) bloom prematurely before the vegetables ripen. The root vegetables particularly are pithy-like and not desirable to eat.

We purposely let some stray celery seed from a wild birds seed mixture grow in a flower bed. It was allowed to grow beyond the harvesting stage and eventually developed into a three-foot tall bush with secondary spreading branches, all topped with greenish-white umbels. That flowering celery plant was just as interesting as any of the other blooming flowers.

IT WAS heartening and encouraging to read that one of the Dodger baseball players, Ken McMullen and his family in Oxnard participate in growing their own vegetables and harvest them fresh for best flavor and vitamins content.

Some of the vegetables seeds gardeners now can sow are turnip, Swiss chard, peas, New Zealand spinach, radish, endive, beet, cabbage, onion, parsley and carrot.

Though September still is a real hot month, gardeners can plant snapdragon and stock for earlier blooming after the first of the year. The first time (some years ago) we heard a wholesale bedding plant driver tell a nurseryman that now is a good time to set out established flat-grown snaps and stocks, we thought he was simply trying to push the sale of those plants. We tried the driver's suggestion and the following year (during January) the stocks and soon the snaps began to bloom. The happiest result of all was no rust infested snapdragons.

EXPERIENCED gardeners know one has to plan in advance for future crops of flowers, whether annuals or perennials. And again, now is a good time to set out perennials that will take advantage of the warm weather, get a better root system established before the cold weather gradually takes over.

One of the easy to grow, minimum care, perennials is tulbaghia violacea, or the "society garlic." The average quarter-inch to foot or longer leaves are edible, somewhat onion-like, and in flavor too, with a touch of garlic. The leafage can be cut up fine and sprinkled over baked potatoes or sprinkled over a green salad. The attractive lavender flowers (in clusters on tall stalks) add the needed blue tone in a sunny flower bed. The plants flower from May through October. They'd be ideal as an informal hedge planting along a heat-reflecting driveway. They would be also ideal for edging the patio floor to add a touch of semi-privacy from the rest of the garden.

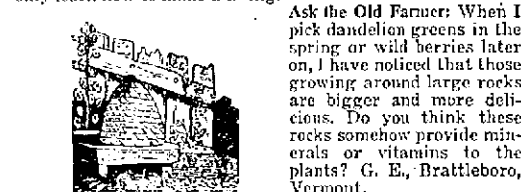

TRANSVAAL daisies, too (Gerbera), would get a good root growth if set out now and planted in similar landscape situations as suggested for tulbaghia, except for one important factor: watering must be controlled by the gardener. Plants love generous drinks of water when thirsty, then no more till the leaves wilt, indicating a need for similar drink whether watered three days ago or ten days ago. Gerbera should be fed at least once a month the year round, for nearly all-year gorgeous, daisy-like blossoms.

SEPT. 10-16, 1973

The sun trends south, the dawn comes late.

Cider making begins now... Columbus finally back to Spain this week in 1504... Full Harvest Moon Sept. 12... Fall foliage color begins this week... Average length of days for week, 12 hours, 36 minutes... Highest world temperature 136 degrees, Azizia, Africa, Sept. 13, 1922... Sewing machine patented Sept. 10, 1846... Some learn how to live, others only learn how to make a living.

Ask the Old Farmer: When I pick dandelion greens in the spring or wild berries later on, I have noticed that those growing around large rocks are bigger and more delicious. Do you think these rocks somehow provide minerals or vitamins to the plants? G. E., Brattleboro, Vermont.

Whatever the scientific reason, this is something that was well known to old New England farmers. They always planted melons around a rock. They claimed the melons ripened sooner, were larger and sweeter. This is usually the case of any wild fruit growing beside a rock.

Home Hints: If you want to have comfortably fitting shoes, buy them in the afternoon when the muscles of your feet have spread... The best way to rid a room of a bad odor is to light a candle in the room.

Plant Clinic

Q.—What's wrong with my gardenia and three camellias (see enclosed leaves). Gardenia was lovely for several months—full of new growth and blooms fell off. It has put on new growth but the same trouble must be present as the identical cycle is in progress. The plant has a large area made especially for it in my cement walk. The camellias are along the north side of my porch and until recently had been thriving. But I find these leaves on otherwise healthy plants, with exception of the large leaf that is yellow with the brown edge. The entire plant is like that. All foliage is yellow and gradually turning brown. I have used overhead watering and an acid fertilizer. If you can offer me any help it will be greatly appreciated. The ground is adobe. I read your column faithfully. Mrs. Glenn T. Friend 5772 Garden Grove Blvd., Westminster, 92683.

A.—The foliage looks as if you keep the plants too damp. I hope you didn't set the plants out in only a planter mix material, or only pre-moistened peat moss. There should have been at least two parts of the organic material mixed with two to three parts of the existing soil. Don't wash off the cement walk that surrounds the gardenia if it flows into the plant area.

A sprinkler should not reach any of the camellias when lawn is watered. Slow, deep watering (irrigating) when plants are thirsty is much better than overhead sprinkling every few days. Any shade plants growing around camellias that need more watering than the camellias should be transplanted to another part of the shade garden. This will keep the soil from becoming damp all the time. Again, you the gardener—the boss—can absolutely control the water the camellias and gardenia get. After correction, you can use one of the so-called "irons" your nurseryman sells. Use as directed.

COMMENT—My neighbor at 1023 Bay View Ave. in Wilmington has the Jerusalem artichokes about 12 feet high and blossoms are beginning to open and they are a bright yellow. In your article you stated you had never seen them in bloom. She planted them as per your article. If you are in the neighborhood, stop by and you can actually see the blossoms. Florence G. Ward 1017 Bay View, Wilmington 90744.
